Wable Admits Complicity in Pike Murders

Suspect Implicates Himself, but Denies Being Trigger Man

GREENSBURG, Pa. (AP) — State Police Capt. Jackson Dodson said today the suspected phantom killer of the Pennsylvania Turnpike signed a 14-page statement implicating himself in the slaying of two truck drivers.

Dodson said 24-year-old John Wable wrote the statement himself while being transported from Albuquerque, N. M. to Greensburg where State Police hold a warrant charging him with murder.

Denies Actual Shooting

The statement, Dodson says, denies the former Cleveland industrial plant guard was the trigger man in the killings last July, but Dodson added:

"We have little doubt that Wable is in this thing alone. At the present time we are not looking for anybody else."

Dodson said Wable wrote the statement in long hand on his own initiative and handed it to State Police Detective William Smith just before leaving the train today at Greensburg.

Wable was rushed to the Westmoreland County Jail at Greensburg under heavy police guard. Dodson said he was permitted to sleep immediately after being locked up.

Questioning Delayed

State Police indicated they will not begin questioning the sullen prisoner until late today.

Dodson said Wable will "be given the benefit of good police work. Each statement he makes will be given due consideration unless we can break it down by showing him we have evidence conflicting with his story."

The state policeman said there are several witnesses who have seen Wable on the turnpike alone and added:

"He (Wable) may claim another man pulled the trigger, but our information just won't support that. We know Wable from way back and he usually works alone. We consider any reference to another person in this case a pure myth."

Seconds after Wable had been whisked from a Pennsylvania Railroad train which made a special stop at this western Pennsylvania town today Maj. Andrew J. Hudock and Dis. Atty. L. Alexander Sculco issued this statement:

"Wable admits participating in both crimes (the two turnpike murders). There are many details yet to be checked . . . ."

Arrested Sunday

Wable, dressed in prison type clothes, was grim faced as he completed the last leg of his journey from Albuquerque, N. M., where he was arrested Sunday by New Mexico State Police.

Maj. Hudock refused further comment until after Wable is questioned further. There was no indication when Wable admitted participating in the crimes.

Wable is formally charged with murder in the deaths of Harry F. Pitts, 39, of Bowling Green, Va., and Lester B. Woodward, 39, of Duncannon, Pa. They were shot in the head and robbed within three days of each other last July as they slept in their parked trucks.

First Denied Killings

After his capture in Albuquerque, Wable denied any part in the slaying of the drivers. At that time he declared:

"I didn't kill nobody. I think I know who did. I've got friends that'll get him. But I ain't telling you his name until I get back to Pennsylvania."

Maj. Hudock made no attempt to question Wable after his arrival. But as soon as the closely guarded prisoner had been placed in a police car, the veteran officer called newsmen aside and issued the statement the youth had admitted participating in the slayings which resulted in a reign of terror for truckers traveling the famed toll road.

Worked in Cleveland

Wable, while at Albuquerque, said he was working in Cleveland when Woodward and Pitts were slain. A gold watch led to his arrest. It was stolen from John K. Shepard, 34, of West Alexander, Pa. A few days after the turnpike murders, Shepard was shot in the head as he slept in the cab of his

WHERE RED POWS AWAIT EXPLANATIONS. Tents in the foreground, surrounded by barbed wire and located near Munsan, Korea, house anti-Communist prisoners of war who are hearing explanations by Red teams seeking to coax them back to communism. In background are tents used by Indian custodial troops.

Won't Listen to Reds

N. Korean Captives Threaten Breakout

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Thousands of impassioned North Korean prisoners threatened to break out of compounds in the Korean neutral zone today, forcing cancellation of the second day of Red attempts to woo them back to Communism.

The Indian custodian command said it withdrew a battalion preparing to force 500 POWs to hear Red interviewers after 2,000 massed North Koreans armed with clubs got set to break out of nearby compounds at the first sign of violence.

Men Set To Scale Walls

"Korean prisoners in all compounds of enclosure G were drawn up in neat rows with the front rank of men stripped to the waist and ready with clubs to scale or break through the barbed wire fencing on signal," the Indian command said.

"In another compound, the fence poles were being loosened to crash through the wire fencing," the statement added.

The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission called off today's scheduled explanations to 1,000 North Koreans after Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Throat, the Indian commander, reported that to use force in such an explosive situation "would undoubtedly result in heavy casualties."

Meanwhile, some official U. N. observers indicated they would protest if the prisoners were dragged forcibly before Red explainers.

Indians Give Up

For the time being, the Indians gave up trying to budge the frenzied North Koreans from their stockades. The NNRC announced that instead of North Koreans, 1,000 Chinese would be interviewed tomorrow.

Yesterday, the Indian command congratulated its troops on winning a battle of wills after 500 angry Chinese were persuaded to attend Red explanations. But today, the battle went to the prisoners, North Koreans this time.

"We've done all the appealing we can," said Indian Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya.

Force Considered

He said the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission (NNRC), of which he is chairman, would consider how to enforce its rule that the POWs must attend the interviews. The rule was backed by the Reds but strongly opposed by the Allies.

Thimayya said the commission is empowered to use force if necessary.

As soon as the guards withdrew, the North Korean POWs triumphantly marched from their tents singing and waving flags. Thimayya said they later began digging trenches between the tents.

Red explainers and Allied and neutral observers were asked to return tomorrow.

Ask for Chinese

The Reds asked that Chinese POWs be sent to tomorrow's explanations, presumably in hopes of meeting less resistance.

Thimayya said: "We've done all the appealing we can (to the North Koreans) . . . We showed a threat of force and they still refused to come out."

He said Maj. Gen. S. P. P. Thorat, the Indian troop commander, would try to meet with the POW leaders.

Thimayya said the NNRC met briefly today but put off a decision on how to force the North Koreans from their compounds.

The repatriation commission is holding 14,600 Chinese and 7,800 North Koreans to hear the Red efforts to coax them home.

The U. N. Command has said it is in no hurry to start interviewing the 23 Americans, 1 Briton, and 335 South Koreans listed by the NNRC as unwilling to go home.

MIG Fighter Found Slower Than U.S. Jets

TOKYO (AP)—The Far East Air Forces said today test flights of the Russian-built MIG15 jet fighter plane flown to South Korea by a deserting North Korean pilot showed it slower than the American F86 Sabre that outfought it throughout the Korean fighting.

Gen. O. P. Weyland, FEAF commander, said extensive tests of the MIG on Okinawa by American test pilots furnished the Air Force with "a great deal of valuable information" which will "enable our pilots to devise tactics to better exploit the F86 against the MIG if they ever have to fight again."

The MIG was tested in around-the-field flights and simulated battle with Sabres by test pilots from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio. They included Maj. Gen. Albert Boyd, commander of the Wright Air Development Center, Maj. Charles Yeager, first man to fly faster than the speed of sound, and Capt. Tom Collins.

Boyd called it a "light airplane with a big engine."

The pilots said it lacked automatic equipment and controls. As a result, they said, the pilot was kept busy with the airplane and his attention was diverted from alert flying.

The MIG, delivered into Allied hands last month, was built late in 1951 and was the same model as those flown by the Reds in combat over North Korea.

Vishinsky Demands Soviet Role in Decision on Trieste

Dulles, Eden, Bidault Open London Talks

Trieste High on List Of Problems Facing Ministers of Big Three

LONDON (AP)—The Western Big Three foreign ministers opened a three-day discussion today on pressing worldwide problems. How to keep a hot war from starting over Trieste headed their list of headaches.

Today's morning session broke up at 8:06 a.m. EST. Another session is scheduled to start at 4 p.m.

Dulles strode out of the foreign office and declined to speak to reporters. He went to the U.S. Embassy. Bidault went to 10 Downing street to lunch with Prime Minister Churchill.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault started their first conference promptly at 11 a. m. in the green-walled conference room at the British Foreign Office. The talks are due to wind up Sunday.

No 'Magic Formula'

Dulles, arriving in London last night, warned they would not produce any 'magic formula for peace" But he said he was "confident this exchange of views among three friends will advance the cause of worldwide peace and justice."

In addition to Trieste, they were to take up their new overture to the Kremlin for Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to discuss Germany and Austria with them, the next moves in Korea and Indochina and other pressing problems around the globe.

Prime Minister Churchill was expected to inject, through Eden, his proposal for the West's top leaders to meet with Soviet Premier Malenkov. Dulles was expected to look on this British idea with a wary eye.

Continuing Effort

Dulles last night emphasized his view that the way to peace is through "continuing painstaking efforts to deal concretely with actual complicated situations which could become the starting points of war."

The current meeting, he said, "is part of that continuing process."

Bidault, arriving several hours later from Paris, also said: "We must not expect any spectacular results from this meeting."

Both men—and informants close to them confirmed this—obviously were more intent on specific ways of dousing brush fires around the world than upon making any dramatic new gesture to the Kremlin.

Suggestions on Trieste

There were numerous suggestions of what the three diplomatic chiefs might do to keep the peace in Trieste, where the British-American decision last week to turn their occupation Zone A over to Italy brought a threat from Yugoslavia's President Tito to move in his own troops from Zone B which they already occupy. These were some of the ideas reported under consideration:

1. Delay withdrawal of the Anglo-American forces from Zone A.
2. Try to persuade Italy to send only police, not troops, into Zone

West and Tito Attacked in U.N. Address

Russian Challenge In Security Council Aimed at Big Three

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Russia warned the Big Three last night that she will tolerate no decision on disputed Trieste unless the Soviets have a hand in it.

Soviet Delegate Andrei Vishinsky issued the challenge before the 11-nation U. N. Security Council deliberating a Russian request that the council try again to set up an international administration for both zones of the Adriatic territory and give it independence.

Aimed at Foreign Ministers

The warning obviously was aimed at the American, British and French foreign ministers meeting in London today with the explosive Trieste issue high on their agenda.

The Big Three meeting put a restrainer on all other areanas of the Trieste dispute. The council postponed further discussion of the issue until Tuesday afternoon, despite Russian objections. In Belgrade and Trieste city, scenes of demonstrations and violence in the past week, authorities kept a close watch to prevent trouble.

Vishinsky's Warning

Vishinsky declared his government would not countenance any "unilateral" action on Trieste reached by the United States, Britain, Italy and Yugoslavia.

This was a rap at Yugoslav President Tito's proposal that the Trieste issue be considered at a conference of those four nations.

U. S. and British officials indicated they would await the outcome of the London meeting to decide what tack to take in the council debate.

Both Standing Pat

Italy and Yugoslavia, rival claimants to Trieste, both appeared to be standing pat until they learn the outcome of the London talks.

Vishinsky led off his remarks last night with a rehash of Russia's earlier charge that the United States and Britain violated the 1947 Italian Peace Treaty by their decision to turn over Trieste's Zone A—occupied by British and American troops—to Italy.

Chief U. S Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. told the council that the Allied decision on Trieste was "an honest attempt to reach stability in a vexed part of the world."

Lodge accused the Russians of dredging up the Trieste issue—long dormant in the council—just to make trouble and spread propaganda.

Farm Program Will Include Price Supports, Ike Declares

McCarthy Spy Probe Turns To Greenglass

Investigators To Ask Him What He Knows Of Radar Espionage

NEW YORK (AP)—Senate investigators planned today to question atom spy David Greenglass at the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., on what he knows about radar espionage.

Although reports circulated that Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R—Wis) would go to Lewisburg tomorrow to conduct the questioning personally, the senator said today he still was waiting to hear from the Department of Justice as to when an appointment could be made.

McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Permanent Investigations Committee, had indicated yesterday he would send subcommittee agents to do the questioning.

Evidence that Julius Rosenberg, executed atom spy, also masterminded a spy ring at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., where radar defenses against atomic attack are devised, turned attention to Greenglass.

Greenglass, a member of the atomic spy ring, escaped with a 15 year sentence in the Rosenberg case after testifying for the government. He is a brother of Rosenberg's wife, Ethel, who also was executed for her part in the atomic plot.

McCarthy expected "complete testimony" to arrive today from a German scientist who reportedly told authorities the Russians were using secret data stolen from Ft. Monmouth.

McCarthy said the scientist, not identified, fled from East Germany into the Western zone of Berlin more than a year ago and told more than a year ago and told U. S. Air Force intelligence offi-

Congress To Study Proposals Early In '54 Session

KANSAS CITY (AP)—President Eisenhower says his administration, whose farm policies have been frequently criticized, is almost ready to set forth a new program for agriculture. It will retain price supports.

"We will have that program ready for the consideration of Congress early next year," he said last night. "After that, of course, begin the exhaustive committee hearings and debate in the Congress.

"The end result will be as sound and as carefully thought out a farm program as practical experience, expert knowledge and good judgment can devise."

The President spoke before the silver anniversary convention of the Future Farmers of America, a national farm boy organization.

Turning to price supports, he declared, "All of us know that the price support principle must be part of any future farm program."

Eisenhower had a breakfast meeting scheduled today with governors of 12 drought-blistered states before taking off for a home town visit to Abilene, Kan., next stop on his current five-day speaking tour which will take him to New Orleans, Texas and the northern edge of Mexico.

He also detailed last night, in his broadcast and televised address, what he thinks the federal and state governments should do about this "drought of devastating intensity," as he called it.

Federal-State Brought Aid Gets Ike's Okay

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Governors of drought stricken states presented a federal-state share-the-cost program to President Eisenhower today and got an agreement for federal assistance in feeding starving cattle.

Gov. Dan Thornton of Colorado, chairman of the governors' drought conference here, said the President, who breakfasted with the governors, was pleased with the states' action.

Thornton quoted the President as saying their share-the-cost program fitted in with his views that the best government is government on the local level.

The President shared a hearty country-style breakfast with the 12 governors, then took off by plane for a quick trip to his boyhood home in Abilene, Kan. He is scheduled to return here this afternoon.

Thornton said the President had assured them no state would be penalized in the drought relief program if it could not put up any state funds. Agriculture Secretary Benson, also here for the conference, confirmed that.

Senator Fears Red Advances In S. America

Guatemala Beachhead, Guiana Developments Cited in Talk by Wiley

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) said today "communism has established a strong beachhead in Guatemala" and has taken root to "considerable extent" elsewhere in Latin America.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in an address prepared for a luncheon meeting of the City Club here, said one way to assure the continued security of the United States is to make sure "that we do not overlook our own back yard, our own hemisphere."

Will Publish Study

He said a foreign relations subcommittee will shortly issue a study of the worldwide strength of the Communist party, country by country.

"This study," he continued, "will indicate the considerable extent to which communism has unfortunately taken root practically right 'under our own noses' in this hemisphere."

He spoke of a Communist "beachhead" in Guatemala, a Central American country close to the Panama Canal, and "serious developments" in British Guiana, where the British government moved swiftly recently to oust officials it accused of Communist scheming.

School Turns Out Agents

Wiley said there is reported to be a school in Prague, Czechoslavakia, "which is graduating literally thousands of Red agents and pouring them out through the underdeveloped areas of the world," and he added:

"Reportedly, the bulk of the personnel for this school of revolution comes from Communist parties in Latin America, from left-wing intellectual groups, and from the Latin American labor federation, headed by Vicente Lombardo Toledano of Mexico."

"Today," Wiley said, "Moscow is training what she hopes will be the future Red rulers of Brazil, Argentina, Costa Rica, Cuba, Panama, the Dominican Republic and other Latin American lands."

Party Outlawed

The Communist party is outlawed in many South and Central American nations, Wiley said, but this "does not prevent leading Communists from occupying key places in intellectual life, in the trade union movement, often in government itself, and from constantly fomenting trouble so as to fulfill Moscow's plans for global revolution."

Stretch-Outs In Air Power Hit by Senator

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass) called today for a defense effort "more in keeping with the perils of the time than the one that is at present our national [illegible] policy."

"Our continental defenses are insecure," he said, "and our Air Force has suffered heavily from successive stretch-outs" in Air Force goals.

In a speech prepared for an Executive Committee meeting of the American Legion, Kennedy said the United States "has no alternative than to give priority to the development of a strategic Air Force with sufficient retaliatory powers to threaten a potential aggressor with havoc and ruin.

"I do not believe that the present program of air power expansion gives us such an Air Force," he said. "Our present effort should be judged not in comparison with what we have done in the past but rather with what the Soviets are now doing today. If we do this, we cannot help but be alarmed by our present progress."

A determination must be made as to whether this country shall rely on an elaborate system of continental defense or concentrate on a strategic Air Force containing such retaliatory powers that the Soviets will be impelled to hold their hand, Kennedy said, adding:

"At the present time, unfortunately, we are doing neither."

Among Questions on Ballot

Road Bonds, School Board Are Major State Issues

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Should Ohio go deep into a 500 million dollar state highway bonded debt to clear and improve traffic conditions? Or should the state operate on the pay you-go plan supported by Gov. Frank J. Lausche?

Roads — the proposal to issue the 500 million dollars in state highway bonds—and schools are two of the biggest problems Ohio voters will have to decide Nov. 3 when they vote on nine proposed changes in the state Constitution.

Six proposals would remove obsolete passages, another would change an article to permit Negroes to be enrolled in the militia —home guard.

Debt Limited

The Constitution limits the state's bonded debt to $750,000, unless a majority of voters agrees to raise the limit.

The highway bonds would be used only to finance major state highways and their city extensions. Only 125 million dollars in bonds could be issued annually. None could be issued after March 31, 1956, and all bonds would be retired from road revenues now in effect by 1972.

Proponents say the tremendous increase in traffic in recent years makes the need for better roads more pressing. They point out that twice as much money is being spent patching up roads as was five or six years ago

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce, endorsing the bond issue, is taking no active role in promoting it. When the last session of the Legislature was considering a road program, the chamber advocated a pay-as-you-go policy for financing new roads It strongly urged legislators to deal with the problem of improved highways.

Not Enthusiastic

However, the chamber doesn't seem to be enthusiastic over increasing the state's debt to pay the improvement bill

Herschel C. Atkinson, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce, said, "We endorse the bond issue, but we're not taking any part in the campaign"

Strong support for the highway bond issue comes from big cities where traffic is heavy. Almost every major city has passed big bond issues to clear up traffic problems

The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, with 50,000 families as members, is trying to do an educational job by giving pro and con arguments on the bond proposal

The federation's arguments against

County engineers fear the bond issue will take away money they now use on county and township roads. They think the main state roads will benefit at the expense of minor roads Many voters say the state hasn't had to go into debt in the past to maintain its road system and build new highways, so why start now?

Lausche's View

Gov. Lausche supports the last statement.

He says, "There is no need to issue half a billion dollars of bonds, with the interest charge that this would entail, knowing that the bonds are to be repaid out of gasoline tax and other motor vehicle revenues, thus annually reducing current available money for highway purposes."

He also pointed out the Ohio Turnpike across northern Ohio is under construction and one or more additional turnpikes "inevitably will come into existence"

Samuel O. Linzell, state highway director, suggested the state build a series of expressways with additional motor revenues now starting to come in He said 30 to 35 miles of expressways could be built a year with present revenues, but could not estimate the mileage if the half billion dollar bond issue is approved.

The other major proposal for Nov. 3 voters was voted down once—in 1939. It is to create a state board of education which would name a state superintendent of public instruction.

Now Is Dr. Hissong

The governor now appoints the state education director. At present he is Dr. Clyde Hissong, Democrat of Bowling Green.

It is believed the governor does not favor the proposal because it would put a board between him and the state education chief Lausche believes that, because he is elected by the people, they, through him, have control over state departments. Dr. Hissong is a member of his Cabinet.

Education groups endorsing or working for the education amendment include.

The Ohio Education Assn., Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers, Junior Order of United American Mechanics, Child Conservation League, League of Women Voters, Ohio State Medical Assn., the American Assn., of University Women, the National Council of State Governments, the National Assn. of School Administrators, the Ohio Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs and four regional associations of school boards.

The amendment, if passed, would take effect immediately It does not say how the board should be selected, leaving that to the Legislature.

The Ohio Education Assn., claiming the present system is archaic because it pu too many duties on the shoulders of one man, argues for the state board of education.

It would protect local schools against state interference and guarantee fair treatment, will not require increased taxes and gives the people a voice in statewide school matters. And 44 states now have state boards of education.

Dr. Hissong himself is said to be in favor of a state board of education

In opposition to the state board of education, the Ohio Chamber of Commerce is making no campaign, but Atkinson said: "We told our members we fear creation of a state board of education could lead to deterioration in citizen interest and control in each of the school districts."

Both the chamber of commerce and the farm bureau favor the other proposed amendments. They argued in the past against a special constitutional convention to change the constitution and say the present method of eliminating "dead wood" through a vote of the people is the best.

Other Amendments

The other amendments call for:

1. Removal of the word "white" from the article providing that "all white male citizens . . .being 18 years of age and under the age of 45 years, shall be enrolled in the militia. . ."

2. Repeal of the section, no longer used, calling for election of militia officer by persons subject to military duty.

3. Elimination of a section empowering the Legislature to pick U.S. senators. The section was changed by amendment but never taken from the state Constitution.

4. Removal of an outmoded section preventing appointment of women to public positions unless those positions involve the "interests or care of women or children or both"

5. Repeal of an 1851 provision creating a commission to revise proceedings of state courts that the Legislature later approved.

6. Cancellation of a section applying only to office holders on Nov. 7, 1905.

7. Repeal of the section authorizing World War I bonus payments, long since made.

4 Days of 'Hell' Started Like Flash Fire

Ohio Penitentiary Riot Made a Shambles of Prison

By BILL TERRY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—It was a fine afternoon that Friday late last October when Warden Ralph W. Alvis strolled into the green courtyard of Ohio Penitentiary, not far from downtown Columbus.

His day's work was nearly done, and he had no more on his mind then the perennial problem of an overcrowded prison and the huge parade the city planned for that Halloween night.

Hundreds of the 3,951 prisoners within the cold, grey stone walls of the century - old penitentiary were eating in two dining halls at the other end of the courtyard. Many others were marching back to their cells, some were in their cells. It was 4:20 p. m., EST, Oct. 31, 1952.

Then began as quickly as a flash fire four days of pure hell — a prison riot, the terror of wardens the world over.

It started with the banging of trays in protest over food in one dining hall, a common enough occurrence that guards usually can control. The noise increased and the warden went to one dining hall.

As he quieted down the prisoners the noise grew in the other dining hall. Alvis, known since athletic days as "Big Red," couldn't be in two places at once. Prisoners smashed windows and threw outside everything they could lift. They overturned steam tables and refused to return to their cells.

"It was a nice, balmy afternoon, then everyone went balmy," is the way Alvis summed up the riot later. "I had more problems in three minutes than in all the rest of my life."

In short order 1,600 prisoners were out of control in the courtyard. Leaders arose like mushrooms. Knives and clubs appeared like magic. Shouting prisoners smashed cell locks and freed their companions.

Alvis set a pre - arranged riot plan into motion. By 8 p. m. 400 state, city, and county police were inside the prison, helping the relatively small force of prison guards.

Rioters set fire to building after building, and at one time during the night the warden reported, "nearly every major building is burning out of control."

As the fury of the riot mounted, Gov. Frank J. Lausche flew to the penitentiary from Cleveland. He called out the National Guard. Police flooded the area with huge searchlight beams as word was passed the prisoners planned a mass escape attempt over the 30-foot north wall. Grim guards armed with sub - machine guns stood their ground. The prisoners never attempted to scale the wall.

That phase of the revolt ended as quickly as it had started. Minutes before 600 National Guardsmen were to march into the penitentiary the cold and hungry convicts obeyed orders to return to their cellblocks.

The only casualty: One State Highway Patrolman mistaken for a convict trying to escape was wounded slightly on the head by a quick-shooting guard.

But the riot was not over. The convicts were in their cellblocks, but they couldn't be locked inside individual cells because the locks were destroyed.

Before Alvis announced on election day, Nov. 4, he again was in complete control of the prison, one convict who wouldn't stop throwing iron bars at police officers was shot and killed. Five prisoners were wounded. None escaped.

The convicts broke off locks of cells in cellblocks G H I and K. It cost $20,000 to install new locks, and the cells couldn't be used for about three months while this work was being done. The warden would like to have automatic locking devices for the cells, but the ranges are so long the cost would be prohibitive.

The riot officially ended on another holiday, St. Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, when highway patrolmen left the riot-scarred prison.

In dollars and cents the riot meant a loss of $478,715.76. Main buildings that were destroyed were the Catholic chapel, the laundry, and deputy warden's office. Other buildings were damaged by fire, including the storeroom where losses were $48,000.

The state Legislature voted $275,000 to rebuild the destroyed buildings as well as $130,000 for other prison buildings. Prisoners are doing most of the work, with paid supervision being brought in from the outside.

None of the buildings has been completed. The Catholic chapel now is in the building housing the Protestent chapel. A school that had been in the Catholic chapel was moved to a new three-story building that was within one month of being finished when the riot started. So were the laundry and some other activities. The new building was to have housed a trade school.

Alvis shifted the mail office, personnel office, clothing department, and commissary to other buildings when lack of steel held up rebuilding.

He sent 600 of the more docile prisoners to Camp Perry and put exrioters in their cells while wrecked cells were being repaired.

It's just a coincidence that trouble strikes the penitentiary on holidays.

On Memorial Day last year nine convicts escaped from the pen. Most were rounded up within hours. The others later on.

The greatest prison disaster in American history, the Easter Monday fire of 1930, brought death to 332 convicts at Ohio Penitentiary. Most suffocated in their cells—the same ones destroyed last year in the riot.

Hog Vaccination Urged

Extension office officials in Columbus today warned Ohio farmers to vaccinate fall pigs to prevent outbreaks of cholera. Fall hogs represent 47 per cent of the state yearly crop and are as vulnerable to the disease as spring hogs.

Seven different cholera vaccinations have been approved by the government. Each of these has its own special use and purpose. Farmers are urged to consult with agricultural authorities before deciding to use one special formula. Age and time of year, as well as the history of cholera in their hogs, should be considered before vaccination.

Benson Holds Up Decision on Price Support for Cattle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson has told the House Agriculture Committee he will decide whether to suport the price of choice cattle after he gets advice from meat and livestock leaders.

The committee last Saturday urged such a program. It also called for increased government purchases of beef to suport the low-grade cattle market.

In a wire to the committee yesterday, Benson said a choice cattle suport program would pose complex administrative problems, such as: price differential, compulsory grading, seasonal pricing and market outlets.

Benson said his department to date has purchased the equivalent of half a million head of cattle—about 41,000 last week—and will award contracts this week for an additional 46,000 head.

The ability of a child to focus his eyes for reading may appear as early as the age of five but may be postponed to 7 or 8.

Pope Assails Polish Action On Cardinal

VATICAN CITY (AP)—In his sternest rebuke of atheistic communism since he became pope 14 years ago, Pius XI Thursday bitterly assailed the action taken by Poland against Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski.

He said "innumerable testimonies" of protest were coming to him daily from all parts of the earth.

"We raise our own most sorrowful and most firm protest against this violation of the sacred rights of the Catholic church," the pope declared.

The pope's protest was contained in a message to the Catholic church's hierarchy and clergy throughout the world upon the occasion—next Sunday—of Mission Sunday.

In it, the Pope outlined the hardships of missionaries today—hardships, he said, which include prison and death.

Cardinal Wyszynski, archbishop of Warsaw and Gneisen, was removed from his residence at Warsaw last month. He was the Catholic church's last free cardinal in Communist-ruled countries

The Polish government announced Sept. 28 the cardinal had been prohibited from fulfilling his religious duties because of alleged violation of a 1950 church-state agreement, and had been assigned to a monastery. Vatican sources said they received reports he had been placed under arrest. Four days after the Poles announced their action the Roman Catholic church put the penalty of excommunication on all its members who had any connection with the steps taken by Warsaw.

Flashback to 1952

Two events on successive days have prodded recollections of 1952, when Dwight D Eisenhower was swept into the presidency by a landslide vote which buried the claims and hopes of Harry Truman and Adlai Stevenson

It was evident then that Mr. Eisenhower had scored a personal triumph; that the outcome of the congressional elections in 1952 did not reflect a strong party victory.

When Gov. Lausche appointed Cleveland's Democratic Mayor Burke to serve for the next year in the seat left vacant by the death of Sen. Taft and when the Republicans lost the ninth district in Wisconsin the following day, the lack of party strength in the Eisenhower landslide was illustrated forcefully.

The lineup in the Senate now reads: 48 Republicans and 1 independent—Wayne Morse of Oregon. The lineup in the house reads:218 Republicans, 214 Democrats, 1 independent and 2 vacancies

As was true when Mr. Truman was president and has been true in many instances since Franklin Roosevelt's second term when he tried unsuccessfully to purge his party of senators and representatives who would not swallow the New Deal, the United States must rely on coalition government. Partisans who fail to understand what the absence of a congressional majority means to President Eisenhower are living in a never-never land of political unreality.

Keep an Eye on It

Little is being said and less is being heard about an action which could have explosive effect on American security .

All that has been said is a terse announcement by the British colonial office that it has dispatched warships and troops to British Guiana on the north coastline of South America to deal with the threat of a Communist-dominated state. British Guiana is a crown colony.

Its small population — approximately half a million — does not reflect its importance. It is a prime source of bauxite, the ore from which aluminum is extracted If its Communist party, organized chiefly by its prime minister and his American-born wife, attempts to seize the government, warns the British announcement, there will be bloodshed.

There will be tremendous complications, too There will be military action in the new world by an old-world power There will be a fanning of the flames of revolt against colonialism in the new world There will be the question in this hemisphere that is going unanswered in Asia Should the United States incur the enmity of nationalists in revolt against imperialists?

The Communist conspiracy is not confined to attempts to seize governments at safe distances from the United States The conspirators would scorn a dramatic triumph if they could seize one in the western hemisphere.

British Guiana will be worth watching. It is about to be revealed how the British colonial office handles a problem no one else has been able to solve

Operation Candor

Washington's plan to tell the American people the score on nuclear fission — the famed Operation Candor — is having one good effect before it even takes official form.

There has been an unusual amount of unofficial candor from people waiting for the official version.

People resent any statement from any government source which puts the blame on them for circumstances over which they have no control

For any government official to hint that the people of the United States are too stupid, too carefree, too preoccupied too lazy, or too innocent to realize what an atomic bomb in the hands of Kremlin nihilists would mean if dropped on one of their complex urban areas reflects contempt for public opinion.

The people of the United States are years ahead of their government in awareness of what the Kremlin is capable of doing The thing they fear most is not the explosion of A-bombs and H-bombs but the ineptitude of their government if such a thing were to happen And next to that they fear the ineptitude of their government while dealing with the possibility it might happen

If it did happen, the American people would do the best they could do, the same as the people of England did when they were bombarded by guided missiles. They would pull themselves together after each new blow for the sake of keeping their society from falling apart They would welcome what little help they might get from Washington, but it would be Washington which would need helping

During World War II, it was customary for Washington to abuse the people from time to time for not doing this, that, or the other thing thought up by befuddled jobholders. Their brainstorms included cutting off pant legs and promising millions of water pumps to air-raid wardens for putting out fires which, fortunately, never started because most of the pumps were never delivered

The best place to begin Operation Candor would be to let the people be candid about Washington's propensity for expensive nonsense and bureaucratic befuddlement.

Lesson in Wisconsin

By David Lawrence

Overconfidence Can Be GOP's Undoing in 1954

The White House might will be concerned about the defeat experienced by the Republican nominee for Congress in the Ninth District in Wisconsin.

For, when only 21,000 Republicans go to the polls this time, as compared with 61,000 who voted Republican in the same district eleven months ago, there is something to be explained.

The late Sen. Taft used to say again and again that when Republicans stay at home in large numbers, it's either because they don't care which nominee wins or because they are overconfident about the outcome anyway.

There was, of course, much disaffection over the farm issue, particularly the drop in farm income which started under the Truman administration but which operates against the Republican party because it's in power today.

To say, however, that the farm question is the only reason for the defeat of the Republican nominee is to ignore the trend in that same district heretofore.

The late Merlin Hull, who was a La Follette Republican, got the benefit of both the radical and conservative votes in the Republican party and in November 1950 he got 60,000 Republican votes, while the Democratic nominee got about 25,000, This was an off-year election.

A comparison can also be made with 1946, when Hull got 70,000 votes and had virtually no opposition. Fewer than 1,000 votes were cast for the other candidate, who was a Socialist.

Back in 1944 the same thing happened when Hull, running as a Progressive, got 48,000 votes against 736 for his Socialist opposition. But in 1942, as a Progressive, Hull got 38,000 votes while the regular Republican polled about 20,000.

So the Ninth Wisconsin District hasn't been a clear-cut example of a straight-out Republican and Democratic fight.

Representative Hull was a New Deal Republican and in the last Congress often voted against the Eisenhower administration.

The Republican nominee this time, State horPad-rtuaA rtSe time, State Senator Arthur Padrutt, was a regular organization man who promised to support the Eisenhower administration. He got 21,000 votes.

His opponent, the successful Lester Johnson, who promised to vote in Congress as Hull had, got 28,000. The combined vote was only 40 per cent of the 1952 total.

Obviously some Republicans who wanted to register a protest on farm policies went over to the Democratic side this time but most of the regular Republicans — who probably voted heavily for President Eisenhower last November and would have favored Padrutt—did not come out to vote at all.

This was either because they were confident the district would go Republican anyway or because they weren't much concerned with the issues—nobody had aroused them.

The Democratic national campaign committee thought enough of the special election to send in some of its prominent speakers—former secretaries of agriculture Brannan and Wickard, Sen Kefauver and others. The Republican national campaign managers didn't take the contest seriously enough to get out the vote.

Now it could be that many of the regular Republicans stayed away because they, too, have lost some of their enthusiasm for the Eisenhower administration.

If this is so, it is going to be very important for the White House to begin to worry a lot more about the regular Republicans it may be losing than about the New Deal Democrats it seems to be angling for in some of its policies.

The moral of the Wisconsin election for the Democrats is to keep hammering away on the assumption that the Republicans will not get out their vote, and the moral for the Republicans is that they will lose many a district in November 1954 if they take it for granted that they can allow a substantial defection without offsetting it by getting the stay-at-home Republicans to go to the polls.

A total of 124,000 people voted in November 1952 for a congressional candidate in the 9th Wisconsin District.

This week both parties there cast a total of less than 50,000 votes. One would think an election to choose a member of Congress would be as important today as it was 11 months ago. It was the smallest total vote since Hull ran virtually unopposed in 1944.

Our favorite commentator, the tomcat that talks like a man, has been mulling over things again This is his script:

This is T. Manville Twill being brought to you through the courtesy of Wheezies, the new dictator-size smoke in convenient 100-foot rolls When you think you smell smoke, take a whiff of a Wheezie and feel good again.

Good evening everybody. There was news today from British Guiana The wild life in the jungle, tired of being misrepresented by imported red rousers, organized a monster demonstration of monsters and killed everything that yelped, howled, meowed and snarled in English or American. If this idea catches on, colonialism will be discontinued before snow flies.

The nation continues to mumble to itself over the unexpected turn of events in the Kansas City kidnap-murder case. For once, the baddies were not the products of underprivileged living. They had been given all the advantages, including top milk. Yet they turned as soul as any human beings have turned in the 20th century The moral: Baddies are not made; they're born

It was revealed after Gov. Dewey of New York had called in the acting lieutenant governor to tell him to resign that the governor cannot tell the lieutenant governor to do anything — a fact which had been known to both the governor and the lieutenant governor all the time. Yet, people wonder why cats act aloof about humans.

The mystery of football's two-platoon system thickens. If the purpose was to take away college football from the coaches and give it back to the boys, yet the boys don't know how to keep the alumni happy, will the alumni take it away from the boys and give it back to the coaches?

It was remembered in connection with the death of one of Britain's wealthiest landowners, the half-nutty duke of Bedford, that he once was described in the House of Lords as a man of "completely pestilential opinions." When they learn to talk that way in the U.S. Senate, America's friends in the feline world will begin to take hope.

Being catty, we find nothing reassuring in pretending that things are better than they are — that the idea of calling a truce in Korea was to get a showdown at a peace conference instead of a draw in the war; that people like Franco and Tito who never loved the United States for any other reason could be made to love it for its money; that euthanasia for animals decreed by people makes any more sense than euthanasia for people decreed by other animals and that there is any better reason for people hating cats than their own bad consciences when we give them the frigid scrutiny treatment

P.S: Please credit this column to my account for deferred payment. I want to travel light for the next week. This kitten I have been going around with has been around before and I do not want to think she is after my money because I am pretty sure she is.

Non-Aggression Pacts 'Not Kept'

By Edward K. Nellor

On the basis of past history a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union won't be worth the paper it is written on.

Just such a pact, however, is high on the State Department and British Foreign Office agenda when and if the Kremlin bows to British needling for a conference of international leaders.

The Russian record of violating non-aggression pacts is on par with her disregard for treaties once she has signed them. Since 1945 she has broken or ignored more than 50 treaties signed with her wartime allies.

In a report, "Background Information on the Soviet Union in International Relations," published by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, Soviet deceit in signing non-aggression pacts is listed in detail.

Sen Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, presented a similar report to his Committee last August. It dealt principally with Russian non-aggression violations in Korea and elsewhere in Asia.

In signing the United Nations Charter, Russian leaders pledged non-aggression, in fact agreed to outlaw war This was in 1945 In 1950 the Communists struck in Korea, as previously in Greece, Indochina and Malaya.

Strictly speaking, the Kremlin has escaped direct aggression charges, although it is an established fact that she supplies guns and ammunition to the Red forces in those areas.

There are, however, ample examples of direct Soviet violation on non-aggression pacts in Europe.

In 1945, for instance, following a series of conferences with Tito, President of Yugoslavia, the Kremlin signed a non-aggression pact that, in simple terms, pledged not to wage war on this satellite.

One month later, when Tito balked at taking Kremlin orders, the Russians renounced the non-aggression pact.

In 1932 Russia signed a non-aggression pact with Finland. In 1939 she attacked.

In 1945 Russia signed a pact with Poland. Within two years Poland was a Soviet satellite

In 1943 Russia signed a non-aggression pact with Czechoslovakia. Within five years the Communists were running that country.

Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia were next in line, following the signing of a mutual non-aggression pact in 1939 Within 12 months Russia had moved in on all three.

Russia now has a non-aggression pact with France. She has not violated it, although the Kremlin keeps a finger on the French Communist party, with finances and directives

The first important step to outlaw war in modern history was the League of Nations, More than 50 nations signed the agreement. That was in 1920. Within a decade the League was being ignored all over Europe.

The Russians in printed references to World War II point to the deceit of Hitler when expressing skepticism on non-aggression pacts.

Hitler and Stalin signed a 10-year non-war agreement in 1931 In 1941 Hitler ordered his army to march against the Soviet Union From captured war documents, however, it is plain that he merely beat Stalin to the punch

U S. officials are not ignorant of Russia's perfidious behavior in international relations. Sen. Wiley, Secretary Dulles, and more recenly, Gen. Gruenther, boss of NATO, have all qualified their discussion of a non-aggression pact with the Soviet Union by stating that, whatever the Kremlin is persuaded to sign, the free world will continue to build her military strength to the point where the Kremlin for once may find it expedient to honor a Soviet signature on an international agreement outlawing war.

Daily Bible Thought

Yea though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil, for thou art with me —Ps 23 4. We are never alone and friendless.

Earning and Learning

Having a part-time or Saturday job commands a very high respect among youngsters of junior high and high school age, according to a group of teachers who spent the past summer doing research in family financial-security education. Most of the youngsters interviewed had such jobs, the teachers reported, and probably more of them would take such work if they could find it and had parental approval.

During the summer just past, eight universities conducted special graduate "workshops" to train teachers and other educators in how to teach budgeting, life insurance, investment and other financial-security topics in the nation's schools and colleges.

Two surveys were made in connection with these graduate seminars, one at the University of Pennsylvania and another at the University of Connecticut. Seven hundred children in all were interviewed to find out how they spend and save their money.

Both surveys show that allowances are in general use and that young people are given rather considerable responsibilities in spending their money, in buying their own clothes, and taking care of their own Christmas gifts, their own savings, and their own contributions to church and charities Money which these boys and girls earn themselves seems to have a higher priority and to give them a greater sense of personal freedom and recognition

The University of Connecticut survey was conducted among more than 100 youngsters of elementary, junior high school and senior high school age while the study made at the University of Pennsylvania covered 600 young people, all of them students in one large junior high school

Both surveys gathered information about jobs, allowances, purchases, savings and contributions to church and charities.

One of the economic realities which face most children today was brought out specifically in the U of P study. Job opportunities for boys of junior high school age are much more numerous than for girls, who in most cases are limited pretty much to money they can earn baby-sitting. Parents make up for this difference; more girls than boys have allowances, and their allowances are larger

Girls feel this lack of job opportunities, incidentally; more than three-fourths of all the girls without jobs said they would take one if they could find one.

Another finding of the U of P survey was the amount of responsibility which parents give their children in the spending of money Nearly 40 per cent of the girls and close to 50 per cent of the boys are allowed to choose all their own clothing, although in most cases they reported that their parents accompanied them to the stores. Some youngsters are given a dollars-and-cents budget for their clothes and are expected to keep within this budget.

This past summer was the fourth year in which the committee on family financial security education has sponsored workshops for educators at American universities.

More than 300 teachers and other educators attended the workshops this year, at the Universities of Connecticut, Denver, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Oregon, Wisconsin, at Southern Methodist University, and at Miami University at Oxford, Ohio.

Purpose of the summer workshop program is to encourage the teaching of family financial security in the nation's schools and to train teachers in this important subject matter.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA E. DUTTON

The Church of the United Brethren in Christ was organized in 1837 when a small gathering of pioneers met at the home of John Gruber was two miles east of Marion. Among those prominent in the organization were John Gruber and wife, John Knable and wife, Jacob Ulsh and wife, Rev. George Miller and family and Rev. Jacob Berger and family. For a time the class worshiped in the home of Mr Gruber and later in the home of Mr. Knable. About 1848 the congregation rented a small brick church on what is now N. State St.

Fine Bridge, Bad Color

OMAHA (AP)—"This structure is one of outstanding design and warrants more admiration than it gets," wrote the Nebraska State Highway Department of a graceful bridge which arches above a busy transcontinental highway just west of Omaha.

But, the highway department asked Douglas County commissioners, please paint the bridge black or dark green.

That way motorists won't be looking up when they should be watching the road.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

To the New Secretary of Labor

Mr James Paul Mitchell,
Secretary of Labor.

Dear Jim Well, you are the man picked by President Eisenhower to succeed Mr. Durkin as secretary of labor and they tell me you ate a hearty breakfast, refused stimulants and walked bravely into the job. Lots of luck. You will need it. You are a big department-store man, and if this isn't a swell training field for a tough job I don't know what is. Nobody who has ever worked in a Gotham department store can ever be easily rattled or upset by jams, squawks, rapid-fire questions or minor disturbances.

If I wanted to accustom a man to tight situations I would put him in department store elevators during Christmas rushes and special sales weeks Mister, that's experience.

Anybody who works in a department store has to answer more questions and faces more difficult situations in a single day than a secretary of labor has to face in a month For one thing he gets used to coming up with right answers when hundreds of shoppers are all talking at once And he is never bothered by a shoving around (That was the trouble with Martin Durkin He let a little shoving around disturb him.)

To make good in the department-store business, a man has to know how to meet people, keep his patience, get accustomed to unnecessary roughness and regard labor headaches as routine.

He gets used to revolving doors to such an extent that the high-speed revolving doors of government service can never annoy him

In a department store it is always hard to tell whether people are coming or going. Consequently you stopped trying to figure it out long ago, and, as secretary of labor, won't blow your top if the picture is confusing at times

Being secretary of labor is a selling job You have got to sell both sides on the idea they are getting a big bargain obtainable "nowhere else in town"

You have got to sell labor and the employer the idea they should come to the "collective bargain counter," so to speak, avoid the rush and leave happily with no bigger problem left than to see if they want it wrapped up to take home.

Window dressing is important in those Washington jobs. What did Durkin know about window dressing? Passers-by could look in without seeing much of anything except some deep-freeze gadgets, and Durkin said those were put in by somebody else

A trained department-store man can avoid things like that and I know you will fixup the window so it pleases everybody

How? (Listen, does Macy tell Eisenhower?) Again, good luck

Don't be nervous even if you feel like asking the Washington elevator operator "On what floor are the socks, brickbats and headache powers?" You'll find out soon enough, Jim.

Sincerely,
Elmer

Still on Course?

Middle-Age Is Time To Check on Aims

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Middle age is the best time to check up on your ambitions.

Your goal no longer then should be to step up the tempo of living to achieve the unrealized ambitions of your youth, but to discard and throw away those you no longer need to make you happy.

An ambition that may be a helpful spur to you at 20 may at 40 just be an unnecessary hotfoot.

Why moan because you have been able to climb only half way up the ladder of success? A goal half gained is generally more real pleasure than a goal won. You have some progress behind you, and some to look forward to.

But the guy who has reached the top of the ladder in middle age can't pause to admire the view, as you can. Too many people are clawing at his legs, trying to pull him from his perch. If you have a comfortable niche on the ladder, the sensible ambition to have is to keep your hold and not be knocked loose by the guy at the top when he is struck by lightning and falls off.

Ambition rarely is given to anybody in the right quantity. If you have too little you are forever a bum in the world's eyes. If you have too much, you may turn out to be another Napoleon or Hitler. The wrong kind of ambition has killed more people than the Black Plague.

Just as a man changes the kind of motor oil in his automobile at the advent of bitter weather, so should he begin to winterize his way of life in early middle age. If he tries at two and forty to live by the same ambitions he had at two and twenty he is bound to get a knock in his motor.

In boyhood a fellow may decide life will hold no meaning unless he marries the prettiest girl in town and makes a million dollars. Suppose he does. He must learn in middle age to face the dismaying truth that beauty wanes, and so has the value of a million bucks today.

Or suppose he doesn't have that million bucks in the till until he is 45, and then goes ahead and woos and weds the new prettiest girl in town. An ambition he should have shed. The prospect is he may have to spend most of the million bucks trying to please the girl, and end up minus both girl and money.

Subtly and unconsciously, the ambitions of most people change of their own accord as they grow older. When young, they fret about things they want to get and don't have, such as fame, fortune and a more glamorous address. As they age they worry more about what they have got and don't want—ulcers, gallstones, fallen arches, a bilious taste in the morning, or maybe a wayward child.

The final ambition of many old people, of course, is simply the desire to endure and survive. They derive even a melancholy satisfaction on reading the obituary of a lifelong acquaintance, merely because they have outlived him.

But middle age is the proper period to check over your list of unsatisfied ambitions, and deliberately weed out the ones that really are more of a nuisance than they are a help. You may be surprised to find that actually your biggest ambitions no longer are to do something you never did get to do, but to be able to do some of the things you used to do and no longer can.

I have just finished overhauling my own ambitions and have reduced them to three:

1. To learn to sew on a button, and thus become fully emancipated from womankind at last.

2. To look at a long flight of stairs, and feel (mind you, with no intentions of doing it)—just feel again like running up them two steps at a time.

3. To comb my hair and catch the comb in a stubborn tangle. I haven't had this feeling for 15 years, and I suppose I never will unless I buy a toupee.

What do you have left on your secret list of ambitions?

56 Rounded Up In Pittsburgh on Narcotics Charges

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Federal narcotics agents in a series of raids rounded up 56 persons Thrusday in Pittsburgh's hill district.

More than 100 federal agents, police and plainclothesmen took part in the pre-dawn raid. So closely guarded was the operation that most of the raiders, with the exception of federal agents, didn't know of their mission until the last minute.

The raids followed the arrests of an alleged interstate distributor of narcotics identified as Joseph Harper.

Joseph M. Bransky, district supervisor of the federal narcotics division said agents spent over $3,000 for purchases of heroin and marijuana in their undercover work before the raids.

COURT DECLINES TO ACT

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The state Supreme Court refused Wednesday to review an appeal by Washington County officials and others from decisions ruling neighboring Morgan County has the right to some $250,000 a year in taxes. The two counties battled over the land on which Ohio Power Co.'s new 40 million dollar plant is located.

Lausche Ignored in Talk By Secretary McKay

RENO, Nev. (AP)—Interior Secretary McKay said Wednesday he decided to omit mention of Ohio Gov. Frank J. Lausche at a meeting of Ohio Republican women in Columbus Monday night "after feeling the tenor of the crowd."

He said he had included a mention of Lausche calling him an advocate of states' rights. The dinner was held shortly after Lausche announced apointment of Cleveland Mayor Thomas A. Burke to the U.S. Senate. Burke is a Democrat.

Bible Words to Live by

HEBREWS 13:8 — "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever."

* * *

In this day of despair and uncertainty we are all looking for security. The type of security that is lasting and permanent. The security for which we are looking is found in the unfolding purpose of this verse.

Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, that is before the foundation of the world. Through these centuries of time he has remained the Gibraltar of our faith. Jesus Christ is the same today. He is the magnetic north of our compass of hope in such a desolate hour. Jesus Christ is the same forever. He still maintains and orders our universe through his eternal purpose. He has not forgotten, nor is he asleep. Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever.

One word remains — "Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever." — and for you. He it is that cleanses, makes pure, completes the whole personality. To this we must cling for the sureness of our faith. This is my favorite verse because it makes Jesus Christ both transcendent and eminent.

Two Senators Object to New U.S. Air Bases

Case, Stennis Say Sites Selected in Morocco Unsuitable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators Case (R-SD) and Stennis (D-Miss) today objected to U. S. Air Force plans for building the last two of five bases in French Morocco, saying the sites chosen are unsuitable.

They spoke out in separate interviews, each emphasizing he voiced personal views based on their tour, with Sen. Duff (R-Pa), of American bases in Morocco and elsewhere abroad.

Case and Stennis criticized proposals to build bases near Dolhaut and De El Jima in Morocco. Work has not yet started on these. Neither senator objected to the nearly complete facilities near Nouasseur and Sidi Slimane or the construction under way near Ben Guerir.

Case is chairman and Stennis and Duff are members of the Senate armed services subcommittee which reported Wednesday on its inspection tour of U. S. bases abroad.

"I personally do not favor building the bases at Dolhaut and De El Jima" Case said. "The sites seem unsuitable for the purposes intended. It would be impractical to construct runways suitable for use by jet planes in those two areas because of soil conditions."

Case took note of French reluctance to admit more than 7,500 uniformed and civilian Americans to Morocco to man the bases. U. S. officers contend that would not be enough to man the three bases now a-building.

"Until the personnel 'ceiling' problem has been worked out," Case said, "it is unnecessary to talk about other bases that would require even more personnel."

Stennis said he understands the Air Force itself is inclined to take a second look at the suitability of the Dolhaut and De El Jima sites.

"It ought to be reconsidered seriously," Stennis said, both as to suitability and whether the two bases are as badly needed as at first thought.

WHERE PRESIDENTS WILL MEET TO DEDICATE DAM. This is a view of Nuevo Guerrero, state of Tamaulipas, Mexico, where President Eisenhower will meet President Adolfo Ruiz Cortines of Mexico on Oct. 19 when the two presidents will dedicate the International Falcon Dam, the S-shaped structure stretching away in center background. After meeting here the two chief executives will have lunch on the U. S. side of the dam and then will jointly dedicate the structure in the afternoon. Water of the Rio Grande River will form a lake behind the five-mile-long structure toward the left in this view. This town has just been completed and its 8,000 residents moved from the old town, Cuidad Guerrero, some 20 miles upstream, which will be under the new lake's waters.

McCarthy

cers the Soviets said "they could get anything they wanted out of Ft. Monmouth."

Military Men 'Baffled'

In Germany yesterday, an Air Force spokesman said they were "baffled" by McCarthy's statement and had no information about the case.

But McCarthy concluded his permanent Senate investigations subcommittee session last night with the assertion that the refugee scientist's full testimony would get here today. The senator said the scientist ultimately will be called as a witness before his committee.

Among witnesses scheduled to testify today in closed hearings were Maj Gen. Kirke Lawton, commandant at Ft. Monmouth, and Maj. Gen. George I. Back, head of the Army Signal Corps.

The subcommittee has been probing into possible Communist subversion by civilian employes at the vital radar defense center at Ft Monmouth.

Ft. Monmouth.

Sobell's Name Comes Up

Among names introduced during yesterday's day and evening hearings were those of Morton Sobell, serving 30 years in prison for his part in the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg atom spy plot, and David Greenglass, Ethel's brother, whose testimony helped send the Rosenbergs to the electric chair.

McCarthy said several witneses brought up the name of Sobell, an electrical engineer who once worked at Ft Monmouth. Rosenberg worked for the Army Signal Corps in New York until fired for being a Communist.

The senator said one witness described Rosenberg and Sobell as asking him repeatedly to become part of a Ft. Monmouth espionage ring, which he refused, but did recruit him into the Communist party.

Was Frequent Visitor

McCarthy said further testimony disclosed that Sobell, fired from the radar center, frequently was a visitor to Ft. Monmouth and had "friends" in the laboratory there.

McCarthy said the name of Greenglass, serving 15 years in prison, "has come into the picture at least a dozen times during taking of testimony here."

To find out more about the alleged spy ring at Ft. Monmouth, and if it still is operating, McCarthy said he expected to visit the Lewisburg (Pa) Penitentiary "as soon as possible" and talk with Greenglass.

Greenglass testified at the atom spy trial that the Rosenbergs induced him to steal atom bomb secrets for a wartime Soviet spy ring while he was an Army sergeant at Los Alamos, N. M., A-bomb base.

Pranks Continue, 2 More Reported

With the actual day still nearly two weeks away, police received two calls of apparent Halloween vandalism last night.

A Forest St. resident reported that about 10:45 p.m. last night someone drove slowly by the front of the house and hurled an automobile gas cap through a front window. Damage was estimated at $10.

An E. George St resident also reported someone broke two milk bottles on his porch during the night and thought it was a Halloween prank.

These reports brought forth a renewed warning from Police Chief Tom Coon "Halloween pranks that result in property destruction absolutely will not be tolerated in Marion this year," he said. He warned that every such case would be fully investigated and those responsible taken into police custody.

Wable

parked truck near the western entrance to the turnpike. He is recovering.

Police found Shepard's watch had been hocked in Cleveland.

Wable told reporters he had hocked a watch but claimed he had purchased it sometime before "from some guy on the street."

A foreign made pistol, which a Cleveland girl said was owned by Wable, also was found in Cleveland. Police say ballistic tests show this gun was used in the turnpike killings and in the shooting of Shepard.

At Albuquerque, in a statement to police, Wable said he was a "pusher" of counterfeit money, adding that the man who supplied him with bogus money borrowed Wable's pistol which was used in the slaying of the two truck drivers.

After Wable's statement, Asst. Dist. Atty Joseph M. Loughran of Westmoreland County, Pa. said he disagreed with Wable's statement implicating another man.

United Appeals Campaign Facts

Q. Why couldn't Mr. B get help?

A. This, of course, can be answered only if the facts in the case are known. Occasionally some individual in an agency makes a mistake, all of us do sometimes. But Mr. B may have been eligible for public assistance from a public, tax-supported agency, rather than help from a private agency. If you know of a specific situation and the agency involved, please know that the agency will welcome your direct query. Other questions of individual need may be referred to the office of United Appeals, 149 S. Main St., Marion, telephone 2-1702. Every effort will be made to help you contact the appropriate agency.

Full reports on the campaign thus far are expected from the salesmen and saleswomen. Workers are asked to be on time for the dinner which will cost $1.00.

Allen County Seeks Return Of Tax Money

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP) — Allen County's injunction suit against the 15-county Maumee Watershed Conservancy District will be heard Thursday, Oct. 29, in Common Pleas Court here.

A temporary injunction order was granted against the conservancy directors last Thursday. It forbid further expenditures. Maumee attorneys said they would appeal.

Judge James L. McCrystal of Sandusky, who granted the temporary injunction, announced the hearing date today.

Allen County seeks to recover funds taxpayers paid into the district office from 1951 and 1952 assessments. The Allen County suit is based on the Scioto-Sandusky case in the Ohio Supreme Court in which the court ruled conservancy district assessments are in reality taxes and subject to referendum vote.

Judge McCrystal was assigned here because Defiance County Judge H. B. Mullholand, by virtue of his judgeship, is a member of the conservancy court.

Trieste

"My own conviction is that the principle of partnership between the federal government and the state governments should govern our approach to such emergency problems," he said. "Only in this way can we gain the advantages of local knowledge, efficiency and incentive on the one hand, and of the wider federal resources on the other."

Whether present supports will be continued after the December 1954 expiration date, or whether the program will be drastically altered, as some propose, Eisenhower declined to predict.

Given 'Farmer' Degree

Jimmy Dillon of Jones, La., president of the Future Farmers of America, introduced the Chief Executive to the crowd of youngsters and their guests. Dillon also presented Eisenhower with an honorary "farmer" degree. With a grin, Eisenhower said maybe the degree would entitle him to free Agriculture Department pamphlets for his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

An audience of 11,000 that packed Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium to the roof cheered Eisenhower's espousals of self-reliance even more loudly than his promises of federal action alone to meet drought, falling prices and other problems.

Studies Nearly Completed

Eisenhower said studies by the administration and by Congress are near "the final phase" and will be put before the legislators early next year.

There'll be a meeting, he said, of his national agricultural advisory commission, Secretary of Agriculture Benson and himself at the White House Oct. 24.

And what will come of it, the President said amid deafening applause, will be a program whose goal is to "build markets, safeguard farm income and protect customers."

Some form of "price support principle" will be included, he declared.

These Days

By George Sokolsky

There is a lesson to be learned from the combination of murders, crooks, labor leaders and politicians who are now being exposed in New York. It is that the Taft - Hartley law is too weak. Its enforcement by the National Labor Relations Board has been too weak. The Taft - Hartley law must be made stronger, not weaker, as Martin Durkin proposed.

SOKOLSKY

The Taft - Hartley law was designed to liberate the American worker from the padrone system which gradually developed in the labor unions under the Wagner law.

The padrone system is the ownership of the labor of men who are hired out by those who have gained mastery over them, a part of the wage being retained by the padrone. Involved is the right of free men to work.

THE TAFT - HARTLEY law sought to assure the right of every American citizen to employment, if he desired to work, while belonging or not belonging to labor unions. It includes provisions for giving the worker control of his own unions.

In this, the law has failed. It has not only failed to keep crooks, racketeers, murderers from making a private business out of labor unions; it has failed to prevent Communists from controlling labor unions for their own political purposes.

Essentially what was Joe Fay's crime against the workers who joined his union?

He forced them not only to pay a fee to his union for the right to work, but he also demanded and received, by many devices, a kick-back, which means that he privately took a share of their wages. This has already been established in the harness racing scandal.

JOE FAY and many other labor leaders also engage in private business, either in competition with the employers of their labor or as a means for exacting an additional and private pay-off.

Businessmen found it convenient to deal with the labor leaders on this basis because it saved them from strikes. In a word, the labor leaders blackmailed the businessmen, who submitted to the blackmail.

In addition, some of these labor leaders formed business combinations with important public officials and outstanding politicians so that these officials, who should have prevented the exploitation of American citizens by anybody, have actually been partners in the corruption.

This is only one part of the scandal. An equally demoralizing factor has been the employment by such labor leaders of murderers, thieves and ex-convicts to enforce their decisions on free Americans with the knowledge and consent of those in office.

IN NEW YORK State, it is impossible for any public official to say that he did not know what was going on; he has regularly been informed by the newspapers, which have been harping on this subject for decades.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Mayors LaGuardia, O'Dwyer and Impellitteri, and all the candidates for mayor in the present New York election have been familiar with the subject.

Rudolph Halley, who is running for mayor, was counsel for the Kefauver Committee which investigated this subject, and whose hearings, while dramatic, brought out little about gangster labor leaders.

The facts were available to him from the daily press which had been publishing them for at least 20 years.

Labor leaders in large cities have tended to dramatize the political system because of their huge treasuries which they employ to stake politicians who are favorable to labor.

The word, favorable, is inadequate; the labor leaders demand obedience.

-:-

THEY DEMAND obedience even from the president of the United States and when Eisenhower refused to obey Martin P. Durkin of the Plumbers, Durkin resigned as secretary of labor, a position to which he should never have been appointed, as Sen. Robert A. Taft said at the time.

This problem is not limited to New York State nor is it limited to thieves and murderers.

As long as the National Labor Relations Board is able to certify Communist unions as collective bargaining agencies in sensitive industries such as communications and electrical equipment, involving war materials and defense operations, the peril to the country is great because every Communist, in every country, is a Russian agent whose decisions are controlled by an apparatus established in this country by the Kremlin for that purpose.

Even the congressional committees which have investigated Communist infiltration in many walks of life, have avoided seeking out the Kremlin's agents in the American labor unions. Why?

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

We live in a land where men, though exposed by a Congressional Committee as spearheading a "project intended to promote treason against the U. S.," can still take the platform and publicly agitate key atomic and electronic defense workers in plants from which roll out fabulous futuristic weapons.

RIESEL

Such men, some of them associates of high Soviet propaganda officials, have in the past month publicly and defiantly strutted across the convention platforms of unions which could paralyze our uranium supplies and our production of the most delicate electric brain weapons.

Only seven days ago such men strode to the podium of the United Electric Workers Union (independent, convention in Chicago's Hotel Congress and denounced our military high command as "monsters in the Pentagon."

THEY CALLED our defensive war against the Sovietized North Koreans and Chinese armies "a scheme hatched in Wall Street to stave off a depression by sacrificing hundreds of thousands of American boys before the altar of capitalism."

It is a fascinating study in arrogance to note that this union, striving astride our vast and complicated electronic industry, without which there can be no push-button or any other kind of defensive war, could find just one speaker from the outside to greet the convention. He was Albert Kahn, one of those charged by the House Committee of un-American Activities with spearheading a "project to promote treason."

TO THE UE delegates, Kahn shouted:

"There is no threat from Russia. Every suggestion that Russia is a threat is a lie, a fraud, a hoax."

What else was said along this line in the many closed sessions one can only conjecture since the doors were frequently guarded by the union's own strong-arm men.

Once during the week-long parley, several members, opponents of the union's leadership, tried to get their rightful credentials and participate.

They were thrown down the stairs, physically beaten and denied the civil rights which the union claimed for itself in turning its platform into a rostrum for an assault on the U. S.

THERE ARE PHOTOS showing two characters in the battle against the anti-Communist members. The two are Tony DeMio, who was a Communist disciplinarian for the Abraham Lincoln Brigade in Spain, according to congressional testimony, and a John Gojack.

It was Gojack and Kahn, among others, who on May 10, 1951, operating out of 1186 Broadway, New York City, helped sponsor the American Peace Crusade, cited by the attorney general of the U. S. as subversive. On that day they sponsored a letter which called our anti-Communist efforts in Korea "legalized robbery."

Their words left no doubt in many minds where their sentiments lay at a moment when our young GIs were taking brutal punishment from international Communist armies.

AT THAT TIME they were joined by two others who soon will be publicly investigated by the Senate sub-Committee on Internal Security — Alex Sirota, of the Furniture Workers Union and Maurice Travis of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union.

I leave Sirota's weird activities to the Senate, but Travis interests me most for the moment since he is the boss of his union and that union operates a network reaching from El Paso, Texas, to northern Saskatchewan's uranium fields.

Sirota, Kahn and Travis are linked one with the other, in the House Committee's statement on "The March of Treason, A Study of the American Peace Crusade". They are charged in this statement with being members of the Communist party.

Yet, just as the UE is given full freedom in the U. S., Travis' union apparently has the Canadian government buffaloed.

ONLY A FEW days ago, I learned what had been feared for weeks in high atomic energy security circles. The Canadian government had quietly, without even to this day giving public notice, certified Travis' Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers as the union representing employes of the Eldorado Uranium Mines in Saskatchewan.

In the words of George Drew, leader of the Progressive Conservative party in Canada, this meant that the union was now "in a position to paralyze the Canadian vital uranium industry."

So you have it. Men who denounce the U. S. for standing up against international Communist armies lead the men whose skills are needed to turn out the very precision weapons which alone can stop those international Communist armies.

We are, indeed, tolerant human beings. Point is, will we survive?

Fiction, Fact

By Inez Robb

I went a few nights ago to a delightful movie, "Roman Holidays" the story of a pretty princess who takes a day off from being royal just to be human and have fun in Rome with a handsome newspaper reporter.

INEZ ROBB

As I left the theater, a dozen people were saying in various ways, "So gay — but of course it wouldn't happen in real life!"

Well, there is no point in picking an argument with strangers in a public place. So I went home, quietly marveling to myself that it had taken the movies almost 30 years to get on film the real life story of a New York reporter.

-:-

ONLY IN REAL life the reporter was a girl, ravishingly blonde and beautiful. And the royal personage involved was, in the 20's and 30's, the heir to a great throne and the world's dreamboat to boot. Women the world 'round fought in the streets for a glimpse of him wherever he traveled.

Finally, in the 20's, he traveled to Canada. The editor of the paper on which Geraldine worked sent her to Quebec to meet the prince's ship and cover his visit to that bit of France in the new world.

Geraldine telegraphed a first story about the prince's arrival, but thereafter there was only silence out of Geraldine. While her editor tried to get in touch with Geraldine by phone and telegraph, he read in rival papers detailed stories of the hours H R H spent dancing with an enchanting American blonde.

THAT WAS NEWS, and Geraldine's editor sent angry orders for her to find out who the blonde was and start the story flowing south.

In the meantime, rival papers published alluring accounts of the prince dutifully going the round of official parties and manfully dancing with local debutants and young matrons, only to make a dash for the American blonde and snatched rendezvous whenever he could shake his bulldog guardians.

Geraldine's editor was no dope, and he did not exactly faint with surprise when other reporters finally identified the lovely blonde who was occupying the prince's every spare hour as a New York newspaper reporter, Geraldine McBorgg. He just quit trying to get in touch with his reporter and started using wire service copy.

TIME AND PRINCES march on and finally H R H. had to resume his tour after a week in Quebec. Geraldine had no place to go but back to the salt mine. So back she came to New York and to her paper.

The editor, livid at such dereliction of duty, demanded her reasons for permitting her rivals to scoop her on a story which, obviously, she had sewed up at the source.

When I came to New York, a few years after all this had occurred, Geraldine's reply was regarded as a classic and still quoted with wonder by other newspaper men.

"I could not write about an experience so sacred," said Geraldine with far-away look and wistful tones that would have melted a heart of steel and did.

-:-

THE EDITOR, dumbfounded by such high-flown dramatics on company time and money, was too stunned to fire Geraldine.

I was a kid with hay in my hair when I came to New York and went to work on Geraldine's paper.

I used to gaze at her with awe not so much because she had danced with the Prince of Wales as that she had bested an editor.

I hadn't thought of Geraldine in years until I went to the movies the other night and discovered that Hollywood had finally gotten around to putting a switch on Geraldine's real life story. But switch or no, it's still Geraldine's story.

Mysterious Parcel Post Package May Be Ransom Funds

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The FBI centered its cleanup work in the Bobby Greenlease kidnap-killing around the St. Joseph, Mo., area Thursday, with a mysterious parcel post package apparently the main objective.

The package was believed mailed in East St. Louis, Ill., a week after 6-year-old Bobby was kidnaped from a private school here. If such a package is found, it may lead officers to $300,000 in missing ransom money.

St. Joseph, in northwest Missouri, is the home of Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, 41-year-old divorcee, who along with 34-year-old Carl Austin Hall admitted the abduction. They are held here in the Jackson County Jail.

Approximately $300,000 of $600,000 ransom paid by Robert C. Greenlease, multimillionaire Kansas City automobile dealer, was recovered with the arrest of the pair in St. Louis Oct. 6. Hall has said he believes the remainder of the money was lost during a drinking spree.

A St. Louis cab driver, John Hager, who gave the tip that resulted in the arrests, told police he remembered Hall remarking that he had mailed a package.

Seek Repeat in California

Democrats Pepped Up By Victory in Wisconsin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Flushed by an upset victory in Wisconsin, Democrats trained their campaign guns today on a special congressional election in California Nov. 10.

And some Republicans, stunned by Tuesday's reversal that saw a Wisconsin House seat go to the Democrats for the first time, talked of calling on the White House for help.

Normally GOP

The California election is for the House seat vacated when Republican Norris Poulson resigned to become mayor of Los Angeles. It's in a district that in recent years has been normally Republican but has swung to the Democrats from time to time. Two Republicans and two Democrats are seeking Poulson's seat.

'We have better than an even chance to win it," said a top Democratic strategist, asking not to be named. "Our chances there appear to be better than they were in Wisconsin, where we hoped to make a good showing but didn't expect to win."

A top House Republican said his information was that the California contest "may go either way."

"We are going to lose that one and many more in next year's general elections unless we get busy and really get to work," he added.

May Alert Party

Rep. Keating (R-NY) said Tuesday's Wisconsin election sending Democrat Lester Johnson to the House to replace the late Merlin F. Hull, veteran Republican, 'was one of the best things that could have happened to the Republicans at this time."

"It may wake up the party and arouse us from our complacency," he said. "It should be proved that we are going to take a beating next year unless we get out and work and do something."

Keating said it may be necessary for President Eisenhower to take an active part in next year's congressional campaigning if the Reublicans hope to retain their narrow margin of control in the House.

The House lineup now is 218 Republicans, 214 Democrats, 1 independent and 2 vacancies, both previously held by Republicans

Another special election is slated in New Jersey next month to fill the House vacancy caused by the resignation of Clifford Case, Republican.

Young Farmers Hear Benson

Long-Term Prospects Are Bright, FFA Told

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson said Thursday the long-term prospects for agriculture are bright despite the current drop in farm prices and income.

And, in remarks prepared for the Future Farmers of America, he said government farm programs are going to be "geared to more realistic production."

In his prepared text, Benson made no reference to the possible political effects of the drop in farm prices, which began more than a year ago. Tuesday's upset Democratic victory in a special House election in Wisconsin has been attributed, in part, to dissatisfaction with Eisenhower administration farm policy.

The secretary said the most pressing problem concerns falling farm prices and income, a decline in foreign markets and excess stocks of some farm products.

The government during the past year has bought heavily in wheat, corn, dairy products and some other commodities in an effort to keep prices up under support programs.

The secretary did not spell out what he intended to do about the excess stocks, but he said surpluses "are not likely to be continuing problems that will plague you in your operations a few years from now."

"We shall not continue to freeze production in uneconomic patterns," Benson said. "Our programs will provide proper incentives for agriculture to adjust output of specific commodities according to demand."

A major decline in foreign markets during the past year, the secretary said, is largely responsible for the present big stocks of wheat and cotton.

Benson said that while productive efficiency on the nation's farms has bounded ahead, progress in marketing methods has lagged. He continued:

"Our remedy for this lack of balance will be to give more empasis to markeung research while at the same time continuing to strive for greater production efficiency."

Wife Sues Her Husband For Courting Day Injury

EVANSVILLE, Ind (AP)—A bride of eight months has filed a $10,000 suit against her husband for injuries she suffered in a fall from his car one month before their marriage.

Mrs. Nancy E. Livingston said in her complaint that her then husband-to-be failed to close a car door properly and she fell out when he made a turn. Mrs. Livingston said cuts on her upper lip and right eye permanently disfigured her face.

Attorneys for the husband seek to have the case thrown out when it comes up Oct. 29. They contend a wife cannot bring a damage suit against her husband. The wife's attorneys argue the accident happened on Dec. 16, 1952, a month before their marriage.

Figure heads and other carvings on ships of the 17th and 18th Centurie were sometimes so heavy as to damage their sailing qualities.

West Preparing for Worst

Allies Ring 'Iron Curtain' With Bases

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Three U S senators were leaving Madrid Sept 26, just about the time it was being announced America had acquired Spanish permission to use air and naval bases in Spain

Their departure on the same day as the announcement, the senators said later, was a coincidence, since their reason for being abroad was to check on American construction and bases in Europe and in North Africa

They were fully informed about the agreement before they left the Spanish capital And in due time they returned here and made a report which was pretty enthusiastic about what they had seen on their travels.

Since the three senators—two Republicans, Case of South Dakota and Duff of Pennsylvania, and a Democrat, Stennis of Mississippi—are members of the powerful Senate Armed Services Committee, what they say about what they saw will have weight in Congress

On Oct 12 this government made another announcement, this time that the Greek government had given the United States permission to use air and naval bases in Greece

So, as in Spain, this was one more rivet in an iron ring of bases which America and its European allies are building on the perimeter of the Iron Curtain.

The United States has already announced signing of similar agreements with other countries for bases For example, an agreement with Denmark for using facilities on Greenland, one with Portugal for the use of air and naval bases in the Azores; another with Iceland for an airfield there.

While the hydrogen explosion reported in Russia Aug. 19 had a clearly sobering effect on Western statesmen, the news about bases in Spain and Greece is obvious evidence that America is pushing ahead with preparations for the worst, if it comes

The three senators, who also examined American construction in England, France, Germany, Turkey, Portugal, French Morocco and Italy, appeared generally pleased with the preparations they saw.

In their report made public this week they said, without mentioning Russia by name, that if an aggressor launches an atomic attack it won't get away with it without having to suffer some of the same

They said:

"One simply cannot see, as members of this subcommittee have seen, the bases that are coming into being and see the performance of jet-propelled aircraft that are in production . . . without having increased confidence in the ability of the free world to defend itself.

"We were told that one man in a single jet-bomber-fighter of the type of which we have several at forward bases can carry more destructive power than all the bombers that were in England in World War II

"This is not to say that a potential enemy might not have planes and pilots of equal capacity but it certainly says that no aggressor nation can start something and go unpunished

"Moreover, unless he had equal resources and equal dispersion of striking forces, he cannot win . . ."

The three senators said "it is time to quit wringing our hands and talking in tones of despair"

The senators made it clear they don't believe in "unending competition" but said that when Russia, again without mentioning the name, is made to realize she can't win, because of the strength against her, she may listen to reason.

New Orleans Crowded With Festival Visitors

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—New Orleans was crowded today with visitors pouring in to witness the climax of the Louisiana Purchase Sesquecentennial

President Eisenhower was scheduled to take part in a ceremony re-enacting the Louisiana Purchase shortly after his arrival here tomorrow The President will sign for the United States and French Ambassador Henri Bonnet will sign for France.

The celebration commemorates the transfer of 529,911,680 acres of western continental territory by France to the United States 150 years ago.

Akron Chief Convinced Krendich Was Slayer

AKRON Ohio (AP)—Police Capt John F Struzensky said Thursday he was convinced George W Krendich was guilty of the 1951 murder of Juanita Bailey, an Akron divorcee

Krendich was found dead of asphyxiation near Dunn Center, N D, last week and a coroner's jury ruled suicide.

DEAD IN WOODS. The body of George Krendich, one of the nation's "10 most wanted criminals" has been found in a woods near Dunn Center, N. D. Krendich, a former Akron, O., rubber worker, was sought for the murder of Juanita Bailey, 30, of Akron.

Interest Rate Boost Hasn't Spurred Loans

CLEVELAND (AP) — The recent half per cent boost in interest rates was supposed to make it easier for veterans to get GI home loans, but it's not working out that way here, says Congressman William R. Ayres, Akron Republican.

Ayres was here last March to hold a hearing of his House subcommittee on veterans' housing. At that time, he said, "it was indicated that if the interest rate were increased, the market would be flooded."

Since the interest rate was raised from 4 to 4½ per cent, however, there has been a drop-off of veterans' requests for home appraisals in Cuyahoga County, Ayres told an interviewer. There were 285 in July, 230 in August and only 134 last month, he said, adding:

"Congress is not going to raise the 4½ per cent interest rate. If they (lenders) do not want to get into the GI field, they should announce it to the veterans so insurance companies could provide the necessary funds to put a roof over the veteran's head."

Sales Tax Receipts 16 Per Cent Higher

An increase of approximately 16 per cent in sales tax receipts in the state for the period ending Oct. 3, 1953, over the corresponding period in 1952 was reported today by State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy. Receipts totaled $4,097,298.

During the same period in 1952, the cash receipts amounted to $3,539,410.

For Marion County, the receipts for that week this year were $21,188 in comparison with $20,280 reported for that week last year.

Receipts for the week ending on Oct. 3 in surrounding counties were: Crawford, $16,190; Delaware, $9,353; Hardin, $8,399; Morrow, $4,563; Union, $5,409, and Wyandot, $5,751.

Guatemala's Congress Agrees With Red Line

GUATEMALA, Guatemala (AP) — Guatemala's Congress approved a Communist-sponsored resolution last night calling for an "energetic protest" against "criminal agression by imperialist troops" in British Guiana. It also asked the other American republics to "express indignation" over Britain's current crackdown on British Guiana's leftist Popular Progressive party.

'Exercise Mariner' Flops

NATO Finds Maneuvers In North Atlantic Tough

By BERNARD EATON

LONDON (NANA) — "Exercise Mariner," the most ambitious sea and air war game the NATO nations have ever played, has been almost a complete waste of time and money to Britain.

I can reveal this after 14 days in HMS Vanguard, Britain's 42,500-ton battleship, during which I have been able to watch many of the main phases of the operation.

The exercise involved nine NATO nations, 300 warships, 1,000 aircraft and 500,000 men. Its aim was to achieve the fullest possible co-ordination in training the navies and naval air forces of the nine nations in various phases of simulated war activities, but all it seems to have done is:

Show that the weather in the Northern Atlantic is the roughest in the world, with gales two days out of every three—a fact which the Royal Navy knows only too well;

Prove that such weather precludes at the moment the activity of aircraft from carriers and the effective operation of all warships below the category of battleship;

Demonstrate that as a maritime nation Britain owes little to any other nation in the world.

BAD ATLANTIC weather in the Denmark Straits between Iceland and Greenland made this exercise virtually a fiasco.

It forced the main body of the U. S. contingent to ask the British contingent to rendezvous 200 miles farther south of Iceland than was originally intended.

For many days it prevented every warship in the combined fleets from refueling at sea, a maneuver which had been regarded as one of the most important in the exercise.

It stopped naval aircraft from flying off aircraft carriers. It stopped the exchange of 20 high British navy, air force and army officers from the Vanguard to U. S. ships until the exercise was virtually over.

A combined British and American striking force, including the Vanguard, was to have steamed up the Denmark straits to intercept an enemy raiders of the heavy-cruiser class.

Carrier aircraft were to have helped locate the enemy, then if the aircraft failed to do so the combined surface craft were to have knocked her out. Instead, only the Vanguard and two U. S. cruisers were ordered to carry on.

THE ANTISUBMARINE escort of destroyers could not take the weather, planes could not fly off so there was no point in sending a carrier.

Then the Vanguard was asked to carry on alone as the cruisers could not make speed in the Atlantic gales. So the Vanguard plowed on through heavy seas and a 60-mile per hour gale for 24 hours at 25 knots.

The cost? Four pounds a minute! ($11.20)

Yet many naval experts estimate that the Vanguard would never have been sent alone up the Denmark Straits in time of war because of intense enemy submarine activity.

A waste of time and money?

The total cost in terms of money for what can almost be regarded as all nonsense is incomputable.

In other terms, "Exercise Mariner" has cost:

The repair of a U. S. cruiser which sustained some damage through gales.

The repair of a D Class British destroyer which had its bows crushed, and of the British Cruiser Swiftsure, which apparently suffered serious damage amidship owing to collision;

Injury to 32 British seamen involved in the collision.

The answer? To hold future exercises in the Azores, the central Atlantic or the eastern Mediterranean—calmer waters where such combined operations can achieve their purpose.

Radio and Television

By John Crosby

Lament for Writers

"Literally millions of dollars are being channeled into television improperly," Fred Coe, producer of Philco and Goodyear Playhouse, declared recently. "The people in charge think nothing of going out and buying some broken down comic for $4,000 or $5,000 a week and then being stuck with him. But at the same time a fine writer kills himself working six weeks to turn out a fine play for $1,200—if he's lucky.

J. CROSBY

"If television is ever to become an art form rather than a home for broken down names, then the medium must give the writer dignity and authority—and pay him well."

-:-

COE IS ONE of the few persons in authority to champion the TV writer, a battered and threadbare crew. An hour-long television script is 60 to 90 pages of plain hard work. Twelve hundred dollars is a miserable price for that much creative effort, especially if the play is an original. One of the wonders of the world is not that television has so much trash but that it can locate so much fine original work at those prices.

Not all TV writers are badly paid. The gagwriters on a regular payroll for a show that is on every week make out mighty well. It is the dramatic writer, operating in a far more difficult medium and setting his sights usually a lot higher, who gets the worst of it. They have inherited all the manifold grief of the radio writers who were among the most bedeviled members of the writing fraternity.

FOR YEARS, radio writers, for a few hundred lousy bucks, signed away radio, movie, serial and every other right in perpetuity. There used to be an ad agency executive—maybe he's still around—who would tell his writers that writing radio shows was like building outhouses. He insisted on telling carpenters how to build the outhouses and he told writers how to write their radio shows. The outhouse metaphor was a painfully accurate symbol of the writer's social standing in those days.

It hasn't improved much. Writing for television is infinitely more complex than writing for radio. Still, writers don't get anything like the money or prestige of actors or directors. It's a situation that ought to be corrected fast if there are going to be any writers of integrity and imagination and genius to stay in the field.

THERE ARE A FEW. One of them is Paddy Chayevsky who last season wrote "Marty," one of the most interesting plays of the season. Just last Sunday, Philco Theater produced another of Chayevsky's plays, "Bachelor Party," which was fascinating on a number of counts. It was a very simple and relentlessly honest story about a bunch of white collar workers—three of them married, one a bachelor, and the other the soon-to-be-groom—have a night on the town.

The married men, enmeshed in domestic boredom and pig-eyed struggle between income and outgo, have grave misgivings about the institution of marriage. The bridegroom has even worse fears.

The bachelor, with his freedom and his girls and his hangovers, seems to have all the best of it. But in the end, they realize he doesn't have much real life and the married men go back to their wives, the fiance to his affianced.

-:-

THIS SIMPLE tale supports Coe's theory that TV needs original stories, that it is not at all happy with adaptations from other media. It was far too slight a tale for the theater or the movies. If anything, it resembled a short story—but even there the resemblance is limited. It was, in short, a television tale, intimate, limited in scoe and strangely effective.

There should be far more of this pure television tale-telling but I don't know where the writers are going to come from if they don't pay the writers or pat them on the back once in a while.

Sister to Shah of Iran Gives Birth to Daughter

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The sister of Iran's Shah gave birth to a 6½-pound daughter last night, her second child.

She is Mrs. Vincent Hillyer, 24, wife of an importer. Her doctor said she and the baby are doing well.

Sun Oil Co. Head Urges Price Cuts To Lower Surplus

CLEVELAND (AP)—The president of Sun Oil Co. urged price reductions Thursday as the best way to end an oversupply of oil products.

Robert G. Dunlop, speaking before a Cleveland Chamber of Commerce group, declared "The best solution to an oversupply situation such as the oil industry now faces occurs when free market forces bring about a gradual and widespread reduction of prices all the way down the line from the service station to the oil fields."

Price reductions, he said, would increase consumption of gasoline and other oil products, make the importation of crude oil less attractive, and improve efficiency.

Nerve Impulses Get Scrambled

Having Hallucinations? Just Brain Short-Circuit

By THOMAS R. HENRY

WASHINGTON (NANA)—Hallucinations may be a matter of brain chemistry. So also may be the apparent antifatigue effects of certain drugs.

Both effects may well result from a disbalance between stimulating and inhibiting nerve impulses in the brain, according to a report of experiments with animals just made to the American Association for the Advancement of Science here by Dr. Amadeo S Marrazzi of the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood, Md.

It is well recognized that some drugs cause people to see things. A notable example is peyote, a drug derived from a certain cactus, which is used by southwestern Indians as the basis of a religious cult. It contains a nerve-affecting substance, mescaline. According to the thesis advanced by Dr. Marrazzi, this effect probably is due to the shutting off of nerve impulses which ordinarily would be present in the visual cortex of the brain and whose function is to keep visual stimuli under control rather than let them run wild through the brain cells.

ABOUT THE SAME reasoning applied to "pep-up" drugs. These do not actually stimulate. They inhibit the higher centers responsible for feelings of fatigue and probably intended to protect the body against overexertion.

Dr. Marrazzi bases his thesis on the chemical transmission of nerve impulses across "synapses," infinitesimally minute divisions between nerve fibers. An impulse traveling along a nerve, which could be likened to an electrical impulse, must "jump" such a synapse across which there are no physical connections.

A widely accepted explanation is that the nerve itself when stimulated secretes from its end a chemical which momentarily bridges the gap. This has been best demonstrated in the autonomic nervous system which controls automatic physiological activities such as heart beat, rate of breathing, flushing, sweating, blood-pressure levels and the like. Injections of adrenalin, hormone secreted from the adrenal gland, raise the level of all these activities. Numerous other drugs do likewise. This might be due to direct stimulation of nerve impulses across synopses. It might be due also, to some extent, to throwing out of action normal inhibitory influences exerted by the central nervous system on the autonomic functions.

THE SAME "humoral" mechanism for nerve transmission across synapses in the cerebral cortex, the top of the brain in which is centered all consciousness, nis not so well accepted. Dr Marrazzi's experiments with electrical stimulation of nerve fibers in the cortices of cats, chiefly in the visual center at the back of the brain where the reactions essential for "seeing" take place, gives strong indication, he says, that the same mechanism is at work. The apparently simple ability to "see" anything is, from a neuro-logical point of view, one of extremely great complexity. Light reflections from the object seen are picked up by receptor organs in the retina of the eye and pass over very involved nerve pathways to the visual cortex before they finally emerge as an image of the object at which one is looking.

It is quite probable that their passage must be stimulated in certain directions and inhibited in others or extreme distorton of form and color, amounting to hallucination, will result.

But drugs can inhibit the synapse-bridging secretion from the inhibiting nerves, the cat-brain experiments indicate.

SAYS DR. MARRAZZI: "Some very intriguing clinical implications present themselves. Do undoubted defatiguing agents, like amphetamine and ephedrine, exercise a mixed action, stimulating at some sites and inhibiting at others, or is the former a release phenomenon resulting from the latter? Inhibition of higher controlling cortical neurons could readily be conceived as manifesting itself by increased activity of the lower neurons, which would otherwise be restrained.

"Pertinent to these observations are the mental phenomena that can be produced by adrenalin compounds — rarely with adrenalin, often with ampheamine and very conspicuously with mescaline, which also produces hallucinations that are most marked in the visual system. Mental phenomena such as these (hallucinations) might possibly also be looked upon as being released when synaptic inhibition interrupts pathways through which the restraining influence of higher neurons is expressed."

STEALS SHOW. Little Dwight David Eisenhower II stole the show at Ft. Benning, Ga., as he grabbed a golf club and started making like his grandfather, President Dwight D Eisenhower. The boy arrived with his father, Maj. John Eisenhower, and other members of the family after the major was assigned to Ft. Benning.

MOVIE SPOTLIGHT SHINES ON CANADA

HOLLYWOOD'S MOVIE MAKERS, who travel the earth for location sites, seem to have discovered Canada's Jasper National park, scene of four full-length films this summer. Latest troupe to visit Jasper included stars Jimmie Stewart, Ruth Roman and Corinne Calvet, French actress. A trip to the location spot would convince almost any movie fan that not all of their favorite stars lead a comfortable life on the set. Not convinced? How about script calls for 4:30 in the morning? Then there was the 65-mile drive through rugged country to the Columbia icefields. Frequently, just as a scene was being shot in brilliant sunshine, a rain or hail storm sent everyone dashing for cover. Stewart used to bring an umbrella to work with him. But, when the stars returned "home" to the Jasper lodge, they got a chance to relax more in the Hollywood manner. There was swimming in the luxurious, heated pool and dinner was brought right to the door by "bicycle waiters." Then, of course, there were those movie star paychecks.

'Operation Reindeer'

U.S. Food Surplus Going To Europe for Christmas

WASHINGTON (NANA) — The Department of Agriculture and the Foreign Operations Administration have received a green light from higher authorities to prepare and ship 5 000 000 food packages to Europe and Asia—as Christmas gifts from America.

Five-pound packages of rice, dried peas, canned or dried beef, and other edibles such as butter and milk products from the government's stock of food surpluses will be bundled up in large Christmas chests of hope for the hungry.

One food item will be missing from the food chests—powdered eggs. The Department of Agriculture says it has sold or otherwise disposed of every ounce of powdered eggs it had had stored away and has no intention of buying any more.

PRIVATE CHARITABLE and commercial organizations have agreed to participate in "Operation Reindeer," following a series of meetings in Washington. This includes CARE the nonprofit private food-distributing organization.

Detailed plans for Operation Reindeer will be announced soon. The major stumbling block in getting the Christmas food chests to foreign lands for the Yule season is time. The goal is to get all the 5 000 000 food packages in the hands of the needy by Christmas Day.

It will be a packaging and shipping miracle if the organizations taking part in Operation Reindeer succeed in this objective. But hopes are high and officials believe that appeals to unpaid volunteers for help will be the major source of labor for the project.

The National Catholic Welfare Council and the American Friends Committee have agreed to participate in Operation Reindeer. The distribution of the food chests will be on a nonsectarian basis and church and charitable organizations in foreign countries will be asked to aid in the operation once the Christmas gifts reach overseas ports.

—:—

HAROLD STASSEN, director of the FOA, has taken an active role in the planning of Operation Reindeer. So has the Secretary of Agriculture, Ezra Taft Benson, and officials of the State Department who view the project as an excellent propaganda move.

Stassen and Benson are certain that Operation Reindeer will dip into our surplus-food larder to the point where farmers can stop worrying about overproduction of certain commodities.

The final decision to proceed with Operation Reindeer was made following first reports that the administration was studying a Christmas food-gift plan for hungry allies. There was some concern over possible objections from Americans who are somewhat touchy about continued giveaway ideas. The response has been favorable, however, and the final decision to wrap up Operation Reindeer in final form and launch it was made over the weekend.

Kiwanis Hears Discussion of Charter Plan

A discussion on the "Charter Form of Municipal Government" was held at the Kiwanis Club meeting Thursday at Hotel Harding. Taking part in the talk were J. E. Oliphant, Louis Conkle and Henry Mickley.

The speakers described the aims and purposes of the issue to be voted on Nov. 3, and pointed out a favorable vote would not necessarily mean a change in the city government.

They said there were 1,106 cities in America working under the city manager plan, they added, it was becoming more popular throughout the country. About 40 per cent of cities with the manager plan, they said, were about the size of Marion.

Also in the discussion, it was brought out that city council has the right to hire and fire its city manager.

Visiting Kiwanians on Thursday were L. L. Garver of Mt. Gilead and Hal Davies of Steubenville. Guests at the meeting were E. L. Gaylor of Saugus, Mass., and Floyd Shaffner of Marion.

Attendance reports for the month of September reveal that the Marion club had a mark of 87.86 per cent of members present for all meetings last month.

Eisenhower Authorizes His Portrayal in Film

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—For the first time, Columbia Pictures says, President Eisenhower has authorized his portrayal in a movie.

The Chief Executive will be played by an actor in "The Long Grey Line," based on "Bringing up the Brass," autobiography of West Point's athletic instructor, Sgt. Marty Maher.

The studio said a letter from James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, authorized an actor to show Eisenhower as a cadet at the academy and an actor to depict the President in a scene where Maher makes an appeal to him. The film, starring Tyrone Power, will be made on location at West Point next spring.

Private Banks To Take Over Farm Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has put into action a plan for sifting some farm loans from federal to private books and thus keeping the Treasury's head from knocking against the legal debt ceiling.

The bookkeeping device went into effect Wednesday when the Commodity Credit Corp. announced it was offering to private banks 360 million dollars of its price support loans at an attractive 2½ per cent interest rate. The CCC is the Agriculture Department agency which handles price suport loans to farmers.

It appeared possible that the interest rate, combined with other terms, might attract more than enough subscriptions to cover the amount of loans for sale.

State Patrolman Talks to Members Of PTA at Nevada

Special to The Star

NEVADA— State highway patrolman Ed Goffus of the Bucyrus post spoke at the Monday night meeting of the Nevada Parent-Teachers Association at the school. General theme of the program was "Safety."

Following the discussion period, Miss Mary Lou Fetters, music instructor, led group singing.

During the business session which proceeded the discussion, Rev. K. R. Roberts of the Lutheran Church had charge of devotions. School superintendent Luther Lust introduced the faculty and commented on pertinent legislative matters in respect to the forthcoming election.

The following are committee chairmen: program, Mrs. Paul Suter; activities, Hubert Kuenzli; magazine, Irvin Tschantz; legislative, Superintendent Lust; membership, Mrs. Ross Disher.

During the social hour, Jesse Steinhilber showed movies of a trip through the west. The executive committee acted as refreshment committee with Mrs. Richard Neiderhauser, Mrs. Paul Suter and Mrs. Louise Klink serving.

The Nov. 9 meeting will be held with Edward L. Hoon, director of the Ohio Educational Association at Columbus as the speaker.

Reuther Says Business Has Taken Government

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—Walter Reuther, president of the CIO and its affiliated United Auto Workers, said yesterday, "Big business has taken over the government of the United States."

Speaking at the 17th annual convention of the CIO International Woodworkers of America, Reuther said President Eisenhower is "a great man and a great military leader."

But, he added, "people are worried about the leadership they are getting from the government and the recent vote in Wisconsin in which a Democrat defeated the Republicans there for the first time in history is the handwriting on the wall."

Striking Force Best Defense, Senators Say

Report on 12,000-Mile Tour of American Bases on Continent

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two senators just back from a 12,000-mile tour of U. S. bases overseas said Thursday America's best defense lies in its striking power.

"The deterring power on Russia is not a radar screen or any other purely defensive measure," said Sen. Stennis (D-Miss). "It is our striking power, and that is where we ought to put our main money, our main construction."

Sen. Case (R-SD) said, "There is no possibility whatever of winning an atomic war by a defensive program. You've got to destroy an enemy's capacity to come to you."

They commented in separate interviews after joining in a report on their trip with Sen. Duff (R-Pa). The report said no one could have made the trip they made, as a Senate armed services subcommittee, "without having increased confidence in the ability of the free world to defend itself."

Asserting "no aggressor nation can start something and go unpunished" in the face of growing free world power, the senators said, "It is time to quit wringing our hands and talking in tones of despair."

Stennis said any nation that launched an atomic attack on this country would be committing suicide because the bases from which the United States could retaliate are so widely dispersed that they could not be knocked out in one blow.

IKE AIDE IN HOSPITAL

BOSTON (AP)—Robert Cutler, administrative aide to President Eisenhower, is a patient at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. Hospital officials said he is undergoing a "routine checkup" by a heart specialist.

Directors Are Appointed By President of WCTU

Directors were named by the president, Mrs. Clara Lawrence, at a meeting of Mary Harris Armor Union, WCTU, Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. John Eichorn on the Mautz-Owens Rd.

They include Mrs. Coral Jobe, spiritual life; Mrs. Myrtle Wood, publicity; Mrs. W. E. Titus, flower mission and relief; Mrs. Orpha Witted, soldiers and sailors; Mrs. Tom Cathers, legislation; Mrs. John Zeisler, temperance education in church schools; Mrs. Cynthia Musselman, non-alcoholic fruit products.

A son by the group opened the meeting, followed by devotions by Mrs. Jobe and prayer by Mrs. A. F. Smith. A report on legislation was given by Mrs. Cathers. Twenty-five members responded to roll call and guests were Susan Eichorn, Nancy Eichorn and Colleen Jobe.

Mrs. Lawrence was appointed a delegate to attend the state convention starting Oct. 22 in Zanesville, with Mrs. Wood as alternate. A poem, "For Faith Restored," by the president closed the meeting and prayer was offered by Mrs. Charles Feaver. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. John Clark.

Harding Set for Homecoming Game; Irish on Road

Columbus Central Reported As Toughest of Campaign

Harding's Presidents meet their toughest opposition of the season tonight when Columbus Central moves in for the Harding homecoming observance

Harding lays its undefeated record on the line and Prexie Coach Pete Howison says it will be the toughest game so far

The Prexies will not be at full strength for tonight's game, their fifth and next to last home appearance of the season Missing at his defensive tackle spot will be Jim Whaley a regular who is hospitalized by an illness believed to be food poisoning

Pete said Larry Sager, a guard who has seen action as a defensive end would replace Whaley at that position Bob Stauffer and Bob Prater both linemen were back at school Thursday after shaking off colds and will probably be ready for action tonight Pete said

Joe Snouffer defensive halfback suffering from an injured knee has done no contact work this week but will probably be ready for some action Harold Jones a back Don Caprino and Larry Harper, both linemen, previously on the sick list, were back at school yesterday and otherwise Pete said, Harding is in "decent shape

The locals, although downing visitors the past two years are likely to encounter difficulty in keeping the Central team from entering their end zone closed only twice this year in four games Tabbed as the team to beat in the capital city, Central brings a 3-1 mark here After losing 25-2 to a powerful Steubenville club, the visitors came back to drop Columbus St Charles 34-6, Columbus East 14-7 and Columbus South 35 6

Like Central, Harding reached its offensive peak last week routing Fostoria 40 6 for leadership in the Buckeye League The Presidents opened the season by blanking Columbus West 6-0 and then followed by defeating Bowling Green 20-0 and Tiffin Columbian 21-6 In last years battle with Central at Columbus Harding rolled to a 38-7 decision

Pete said offensively he would probably go with Gene Armstrong and Bob Stauffer at ends Frank DeAmo and Bob Hamor at tackles Alvin Thomas and Whitey Clinger at guards Bob Caldwell at center and Chet King and Joe Albinack at halves, Gary Ballenger at fullback, and either Don Schweinfurth or Fred Price at quarterback

On defense, Sager and Tom Hazen will be at ends Hamor and Prater at tackles, Harper and Gary Huber at guards Hank Rinnert and Alvin Thomas at linebackers and Snouffer Price and Doug Bibler at halfback positions

Harding Holds Big Margin in Grid Statistics

Statistics for Harding's first four football games give Pete Howison's Prexies an overwhelming edge over their opponents The locals attempt to improve their performances tonight in the Homecoming clash with Columbus Central

Fullback Gary Ballinger is pacing the ground gainers with 410 yards in 68 carries for an average of 6 03 yards Chet King halfback is averaging 4 84 a carry on 208 yards in 43 cracks at the line and Joe Albinack halfback has ground out 136 yards in 36 trys for a 3 78 average On only four running plays, Doug Bibler–who has been playing defensive ball when he hasn't been injured this year–has 26 yards to his credit for a 6 5 average

Pass receivers are led by King who has hung onto seven for 98 yards and one touchdown Gene Armstrong has caught three serials for 55 yards Albinack two for 20 yards Bob Stauffer one for 45 yards Tom Hazen one for 30 yards and Ted Firstenberger one for 11 yards

Harding's passing attack shows 15 completions out of 44 throws for 259 yards The enemy has intercepted seven President serials The opposition trying 63 throws, has hit on 18 completions for 271 yards and has had 11 throws intercepted Joe Snouffer and Fred Price each have five of those pilfers and Whitey Clinger has the other

Bibler has returned 10 punts for 128 yards while Armstrong has picked up eight yards on three punt returns The locals have racked up 43 first downs to the opponents 24 and outgained them 809 yards to 89 yards

SHORT SPORTS

By John Short

The opening of the International Hockey League season in Marion has been rated an overwhelming success in most quarters The 3 500 crowd was satisfactory to club officials and everyone concerned

SHORT

Some of the fans mostly those who made the trip from Cincinnati, left the arena happy Only blemish of the evening was the fact that Marion's Barons came out on the short end of a 7 1 count

But after watching the Barons in practice the next day were convinced local fans will be singing a different tune soon Coach Ott Heller put his charges through a rugged Thursday afternoon drill and the boys were going at full speed Some remained on the ice even after Ott had called a halt

Most of the Marion fans were watching their first actual hockey contest And, as would be expected, comment on the action varied All of them agreed however, that the game was here to stay

One won in admitted she didn't understand the game but thought it looked a lot like a bunch of boys trying to beat each other's brains out with a silly stick' Others had more apt descriptions but nearly every person asked said he or she, would be back for more

PULLING OUT. Reports coming out of Tiffin have Columbian pulling out of the Buckeye League next year The reports began circulating this week and have been growing steadily

Columbian, smallest school in the Buckeye League is reported set to apply for membership in the Northern Ohio League to replace Crestline Crestline announced its intention of pulling out of the NOL because of its inability to put together a team strong enough to compete in the league Mansfield Madison already has applied for the spot but Tiffin is reported to still have a chance at it

Harding Fremont Ross, Findlay and Fostoria are other members of the Buckeye League The reported withdrawal of Tiffin already has started suggestions in Findlay for the Trojans to pull out of the League unless all teams are termed three-year schools Fremont and Fostoria at the present time play under a four-year plan making freshmen eligible

One league newspaper reported some sideliners feel the league should be made up of one or the other We have yet to hear any Harding or Bowling Green players coaches or fans complain about the four-year plan at Fostoria or even at Fremont

Erie Gives Trophy To Stimulate Rivalry

An Erie Railroad steam locomotive bell which has been presented to the high schools of Ashland and Harding as a traveling trophy for their annual football competition is shown above at its presentation to the Harding High School this week.

Members of the school administration at Harding and officials of the Erie Railroad grouped around the bell at its presentation are, left to right Cecil Gabler, principal at Harding, Pete Howison, football coach; Kenneth Somerlot athletic coordinator Jim Lawler basketball coach J H Smith, treasurer of the school athletic board Bill Hamor president of the Harding Booster Club R H Lewis, division superintendent of the Erie Vernon F Green, assistant general passenger agent from Youngstown and John L. Tjaden, division freight agent

Lewis superintendent of the Erie's Kent Division presented the highly-polished bell mounted on a walnut base to school officials Wednesday afternoon Displayed to Harding High School students in a pre-game assembly today, it will be moved to Ashland for a similar program next week

Harding goes to Ashland for their annual football rivalry on Oct 29

At the presentation of the bell, Lewis explained the bell traveled through the cities of Ashland and Marion for many years on Erie locomotives and its sound should be familiar to the residents

"In recent years the Erie has become completely dieselized in its program of modernization and progress," Mr. Lewis said 'Within a relatively short time, steam locomotives may disappear from all railroads and the friendly sound of the bells may be unknown to coming generations It is for this reason that the Erie Railroad is happy to place this bell in the care of schools in two communities which have played a part in its development.

Mr Lewis pointed out that an inscription on the trophy states it is Dedicated to Good Sportsmanship and Fair Play' A walnut plaque is equipped with 15 brass plates for recording the winner each year The plan is to have the winning team keep the trophy for one year.

"We hope the competition for annual possession of the bell will be so keen that it will not remain in one school for more than a year," he added

The complete bell trophy weighs more than 300 pounds and stands approximately 36 inches high The brass bell has been highly polished and lacquered to retain its brightness The hanger and clapper have been painted black The bell and yoke are mounted on a thick solid walnut base on which a plaque has been applied for listing the winners each year

St. Mary Holds Weight Edge Over Columbus Team

Unbeaten and unscored on, St Marys takes to the road for the first time tonight for an encounter with Columbus St Marys

For the first time this season Ray Robbins' Irish will be going into a game with a weight advantage The Marion squad outweighs its opposition on both offense and defense

Both teams use a split-T offense and the Irish have spent the past two weeks developing a gap defense for use against that formation

St Marys goes into the contest rested after an open date last week The team is at top strength with only Guard Dick Mautz out with illness

On offense for the locals it will be Pat O'Connor and Don Shoemaker or Jack O'Keefe at the ends John Kelly and Ed Quinn at the tackle posts, Jerry Ballenger and Bob Campton at guards and Jack Schnitzler center The offensive backfield has Roger Michell calling the signals Johnny Messenger or Ted Kilbury and Mike Anderson in the half back slots, and Larry Ryan at full

On defense O'Connor and Shoemaker will handle the end posts with Schnitzler and Quinn at the tackles and Kelly and Campton at the guard positions

Ballenger and Ryan will back up the line with Anderson and Kilbury in the halfback slots and Messenger at safety

Tonight's contest will find Marion St Marys attempting to stretch its win streak to four while holding the opposition scoreless The Irish now own wins over Carding ton, 27-0 Lima St Rose, 7-0, and Mt Gilead 36 0

Columbus is out to better a 2 2 record The Ramblers fell before Dover St Joseph, 25-0, and Mt Vernon 24 6 but won their past two games over Boys Industrial School 13-6, and Columbus Rosary, 12 0

Underdogs Eye More Upsets In Grid Ranks

NEW YORK (AP) — Underdogs stand a good chance to juggle the national ratings again this weekend and maintain the element of surprise that so far has marked the current season.

The Illinois-Minnesota game has real possibilities for an upset. The ninth-ranked Illini rose to sudden stardom on the strength of their 41-20 stampede of Ohio State last week but will have to prove they are still that good against a Paul Giel-led Gopher squad that appears to have found itself.

The Michigan-Northwestern, Georgia Tech-Auburn, Stanford-UCLA, Rice-SMU, Navy-Princeton and Mississippi State-Kentucky contests belong in the same class.

Northwestern, Minnesota's victim by a surprise 30-13 margin, has the makings of an explosive attack featuring the passing of Dick Thomas and some strong running. It might be just the thing to catch Michigan, the nation's No. 5 unit, after the Wolverines narrow 14-13 squeak over Iowa in a savage encounter.

Georgia Tech, teetering on the brink of defeat despite a 30-game unbeaten string until a solid victory over Tulane last weekend, must show Auburn that recovery was a lasting one. The sixth-ranked Techmen have the unenviable task of facing a sophomore-laden band of Tigers who appear to be improving with each week—topped by a comeback from a 21-point deficit in the final period to tie Mississippi State.

Jackie Parker and those same Mississippi State teammates of his could fall prey to Kentucky and the always-dangerous Steve Meilinger.

UCLA's No. 4 Bruins, a rugged defensive bunch who have yielded but seven points in four games, will be called upon to face the toughest passer they've seen so far—Stanford's Bob Garrett.

Rice, after three non-conference victories, risks its pre-season favorite rating against the SMU team that gave Georgia Tech fits before losing 6-4 and then looked impressive in downing Missouri.

Navy has the manpower edge and the favored role but Princeton has a couple of ace-high tailbacks named Dick Frye and Royce Flippin that could scuttle the Middies.

The NCCA-approved television game is the tradition-bound Alabama-Tennessee contest and the underdog Vols could drive an early spike into Crimson Tide conference hopes if tailback Jimmy Wade cuts loose.

Other top teams have an easier time of it. Top-ranked Notre Dame returns to action after a week's layoff to play Pitt. Michigan State, No. 2, is expected to take care of Indiana in routine fashion, while Maryland's third-rated Terps are expected to extend their unbeaten string at the expense of the one boasted by North Carolina. And Baylor, No. 8 draws uncoordinated Vanderbilt.

Duke's Blue Devils from Durham invade New York's Polo Grounds with a plan to steal the march on Army's Cadets and solidify their position as seventh best in the nation.

Prexy Runners Buck Jinx, Win Columbus Race

Harding's cross country team raced to an easy victory yesterday afternoon over Columbus South at the Beacon Light Golf Course in Columbus. The Prexy harriers won 21-40

Although the Harding runners won, the team bucked a jinx from the time it left Harding High School

Coach Ken Somerlot reported one car carrying team members had tire trouble on the way to the meet. Hugh Kinnamon, one of the Prexies top runners, became ill on the way down and was forced to remain out of action. On the way home, one of the team cars was involved in a traffic accident at a busy intersection Walter Pryor, a sophomore was injured and taken to University Hospital. He was treated for a knee injury but was released after X-rays

The team, during the race, had no trouble, however Gene Monroe led after the first mile and a quarter but got off course and lost to South's Phil Chamberlain Allen Green, Ben Dozier and Dick Bolinger grabbed the three, four and five spots to give the Prexies their big edge. Dick Mull moved up to become Harding's No. 5 man and Dallas Foos and Roger Ward rounded out the top seven.

Harding will run in the Bowling Green Relays Saturday if Kinnamon is recovered. Somerlot said the local team would not enter without him.

Results of the meet: Chamberlain (S) 10:46; Monroe (H) 10:54.5; Green (H) 11:24; Dozier (H) 11:25; Bolinger (H) 11 37 5; Clayton (S) 11:40; Mull (H) 11 52 5; Foos (H) 11:54; Ward (H) 12.01; Huntsman (H) 12:02; Hartman (H) 12.03; Williams (H) 12:04; Hopkins (H) 12:08.5; Keener (S) 12 09 5; Owens (S) 12 10.5. 'Gopher' Title Won by Hacker

NEW YORK (AP)—Warren Hacker, one of the most effective pitchers in the National League in 1952, was the most affected by the "gopher ball" plague during the 1953 season.

The 29-year-old Chicago Cubs hurler, who had a 15-9 record and was second in the league in the earned run averages a year ago, saw the opposing batters spitting on their hands and swinging for the fences every time they faced him during the past season. And they reached those fences for 35 home runs—the most off any major league pitcher.

Statistics compiled by The Associated Press reveal two Detroit southpaws, Ted Gray and Billy Hoeft shared the American League gopher ball title. They didn't come close to Hacker's dismal record, each giving up 24 homers. Gray pitched 176 innings and Hoeft 197 as compared to 233 for Hacker.

Ohio's Running Attack To Get Test by Penn

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Woody Hayes and 32 of his Ohio State University football players leave Columbus by plane today for Philadelphia, where the Bucks play Pennsylvania tomorrow. Twenty-six players left by train last night.

The Buckeyes will hold a brief workout at Franklin Field where they will be fighting for their third victory in four games. It will be the last non-conference contest for the Ohioans.

Hayes ran his squad through a light workout yesterday and pronounced the session satisfactory.

Saturday's battle shapes up as a test of Ohio's running against Pennsylvania's passing. With ace Buckeye quarterback Johnny Borton out of commission because of injuries, Ohio's heralded aerial potential will be overshadowed by the ground offensive

Penn has the gifted arms of Ed Gramigna and Walt Hynoski to counteract the Buckeye backfield of Bobby Watkins, Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Jerry Harkrader and Dave Leggett, Borton's replacement.

Baker Gridders Cinch City Title

Eber Baker Junior High School clinched the title in the Marion Junior High School League yesterday with a 28-7 win over Thomas A. Edison Junior High School. The season will end Monday when Edison meets Taft.

After a scoreless first period, Coach Don Zeisler's Baker team broke loose. The first score came in the second when Dick Dennis ended an 80-yard march by plowing through the line for 10 yards. Dennis scored the point by skirting end. Jack Noggle intercepted a pass to set up the final tally. The march covered 55 yards. Bill Schnaufer scored from the three and Dick Ulery converted.

Dinner at Bucyrus Planned To Honor Minor Loop Boss

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — More than 100 Bucyrus residents are expected to attend a testimonial dinner next Monday night at the YMCA here for George M. "Red" Trautman, a Bucyrus native, who is president of the National Association of Baseball Leagues.

Mayor Frank P. Sitler is in charge of arrangements for the dinner, which was planned after Trautman had been named as one of a number of Ohio sons to be honored at an "Achievement Day" banquet in Cleveland, Tuesday.

Trautman was quoted as saying "if they're going to do anything for me, I'd like to have it done in Bucyrus, my old home town." The minor league baseball boss is expected to attend the Cleveland meeting

Trautman, a brother of Fred, local deputy registrar of motor vehicles and secretary of the Crawford County Automobile Club, served as president of the Columbus Red Birds and later was general manager of the Detroit Tigers before taking over the minor league presidency.

Lulu Perez Seeks 23rd Straight in TV Feature

NEW YORK (AP)—Lulu Perez, one of the few hotshot young prospects in the fight game, is expected to win his 23rd straight tonight at St. Nicholas Arena in a 10-round bout with Joey Cam of Boston.

The wiry 5-foot-5 Brooklyn feather, fast becoming a favorite with the television customers, hopes to move into a November date with Willie Pep, the ex-champ, if he gets past Cam without too much trouble.

Jockey Races Way Into New Riding Record

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Wee Willie Shoemaker, mighty mite of American thoroughbred racing, was ready today to begin rolling up the greatest riding record in history.

The 96-pound Texan tied the world record yesterday in the seventh race at Golden Gate Fields. He brought Haltafire home in front for his 390th win of the year, tieing the record set last year by Tony Despirito of Lawrence, Mass., who then was 17.

Shoemaker, 22, is more than 100 winners ahead of Despirito this year.

The little jockey, born in El Paso, Tex., owns a home now in Arcadia, Calif., but drives and lives from track to track in a trailer. He is practically certain to become the first jockey ever to chalk up 400 or more winners in one year. After the current meeting is over he will ride at nearby Bay Meadows and from there will go to Santa Anita.

"The Shoe" had mounts in all eight races scheduled for today. The public was expected to make him the favorite in most of them

Shoemaker rode six horses Wednesday and six yesterday before matching the record with Haltafire.

A crowd of 8,006 gave him a fine hand when he led Haltafire into the winners' circle yesterday. The first colleague to congratulate Shoemaker was veteran Johnny Longden, who was champion in 1938, 1947-48. Longden was aboard the favorite, the Green Lon, when Wee Willie tied the record

Mayor Burke In Capital on City Business

Also Intends To Line Up Details in New Job As Senator From Ohio

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas A. Burke took his first look at Washington today as the newly-appointed Democratic senator from Ohio.

Insisting he is still primarily the mayor of Cleveland he told reporters who met him in Union Station:

"Even after I'm sworn in as senator, I am going to be a little pitcher with big ears for awhile."

In Town on City Job

Burke came here primarily for talks with the government officials about the financing of a rapid transit line in Cleveland.

But he also is going to line up some details in preparation for his job as senator.

Burke told the reporters he thought his Republican predecessor, the late Sen. Robert Taft, was a "great man." But when a newsman asked whether he agreed with most of Taft's voting record, he replied:

"No, I did not."

Burke said he did not want to declare his position on national issues until his job as mayor ends Nov. 9

Many Private Opinions

"Naturally," he said, "I have a lot of private opinions on these issues. You couldn't be in public life and not have ideas about them."

Burke said he has not made up his mind whether he will run in a special election next year for the two years remaining of Taft's term. But he did say he and Gov. Frank Lausche of Ohio had never discussed Lausche running for the Senate, as has been rumored.

Burke said he felt pretty unfamiliar with his new job and asked where the Senate Office Bldg. is. When a reporter pointed it out several hundred yards southeast of Union Station, Burke laughed and said he knew that much at least.

Asks About Housing

"Incidentially," he asked, "Is it very hard to get an apartment around here?" A reporter assured him it is easier now than it had been.

Burke scheduled one of his first appointments as a social call on George M Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury and a fellow Clevelander.

After that, he arranged to see Kenton R. Cravens, Reconstruction Finance Corp. administrator, about some Cleveland transit line business.

Before beginning his round of appointments, the Ohioan breakfasted at the Sheraton—Carlton Hotel with some friends.

Senatorial Staff

Regarding his senatorial staff, he said a number of people in his office in Cleveland wanted to come along with him. But he said he did not know who he will hire.

Burke said he will be here only one day but plans to be back two or three more times before Congress meets Jan. 6.

Before Burke got to town, arrangements were made for him to see reporters at two o'clock this afternoon. He said he'd see them, but didn't know what he'd talk about.

Fite Memorial Church Makes Building Plans

Steps were taken in the building program of Fite Memorial Baptist Church recently when members voted at a business session to have an architect advise the congregation in making plans for an addition to the present church building. The wing will be added on the west side.

Present plans call for a basement 40 by 60 feet to provide a fellowship hall seating nearly 300, a stage, and a kitchen, the divided space to be used as classrooms. Above this, first floor will provide classrooms for ursery and Beginners departments, and rest rooms, the pastor, Rev. N. D Renn, stated.

The 35-year-old flier, who flew combat missions in World War II and the Korean War, attained an official speed of 753 3 miles an hour.

Greenlease Grave To Be Reopened in Search for Marsh

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Investigators planned today to reopen the lime-filled grave in which the body of kidnap victim Bobby Greenlease was found.

John Downs, Buchanan County prosecutor, ordered the grave reopened "just on an off-chance" that Thomas Marsh's body might be there.

Carl Austin Hall, who confessed kidnaping and slaying 6-year-old Bobby, first said the child was shot to death by Marsh. Later he absolved Marsh, saying he alone shot the boy.

Officials have speculated that the missing Marsh, an ex-convict, also had been killed.

Held in the Jackson County Jail here with Hall is Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady, who admitted luring Bobby from his school Sept. 8 and turning him over to Hall.

The grave is in the yard of her St. Joseph, Mo., home. Downs said the reopening was merely a double check and that he believed the grave had been dug deep enough at the time Bobby's body was recovered to rule out the possibility of anything else being buried there.

Government Broadens Waterfront Injunction

NEW YORK (AP)—The federal government has broadened the no-strike injunction against the International Longshoremen's Assn. to include the rival AFL union.

Federal Judge Edward Weinfeld last night widened the scope of the Taft-Hartley injunction which halted the five-day waterfront strike with a temporary restraining order effective until Oct. 25 against the ILA-AFL.

The old ILA, ousted from the AFL on charges of failing to clean house of graft and racketeering, had complained it was "hog-tied" by the original injunction, saying it enabled the AFL union to harass ILA dockers into violating the no-strike edict.

Weinfeld set next Tuesday for the AFL union to show cause why it should not be prohibited from striking under the same injunction.

Rules of Safety Cited For Using Cornpicker

CARBONDALE Ill (UP) — The cornpicker, probably responsible for more maiming accidents than any other piece of farm machinery could be rendered harmless by a few simple precautions according to Fred W Roth agriculture engineer at Southern Illinois University

Roth outlined these three steps in operating a corn-picker to make it 'no more dangerous than a tractor or other farm implement".

1 Check the condition and adjustment of the snapping and husking rolls. Clogging possibilities increase as these parts become worn

2 See that all guards and shields covering moving parts are in place

3 Never try to do any adjusting or cleaning of the corn picker while the machine is running
